Diefenbaker Greets Japan In Japanese!

TOKYO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada rode through the streets of Tokyo in a decorated horse-drawn carriage yesterday for an audience with Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

The 45-minute drive to the Imperial Palace for the audience and luncheon with the emperor highlighted the first day of the Canadian leader's five-day visit to this nation of 93,400,000 people.

EXHAUSTING FLIGHT

It followed by about four hours Diefenbaker's arrival at Tokyo International Airport aboard an RCAF Comet jet after an exhausting flight of 7,250 miles—about one-third of the way around the world—from Ottawa. Altogether, three RCAF aircraft logged 26 hours of air time bringing him here.

DELIGHTS WELCOMERS

The prime minister delighted his airport welcome by delivering one sentence of his short arrival address in Japanese. "I have arrived today in Japan and I bring greetings from the people of Canada," he said in halting Japanese.

DID IT BEFORE

For Japan, it was an almost unprecedented gesture by a foreign dignitary. But it was nothing new for the prime minister. He gave part of his arrival address in Spanish on his last state visit outside Canada—to Mexico City in April, 1960.

DINNER GIVEN

After the audience with the emperor, the prime minister visited the House of Representatives, Japan's lower house of parliament, while it was in session. A reception and dinner followed at the Canadian Embassy, with the Diefenbakers acting as hosts to Premier and Mrs. Ikeda.

UN Decides Today On Stop Bomb Plea

Victoria Spared Fallout

Victoria's location is spared from any heavy fallout from Russian bomb tests, Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory said last night.

"The fallout from these Arctic tests seems to generally pass to the north of us," he said.

U.S. Public Assured Food Will Be Checked

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States government has decided to step up its inspection of food for possible radioactivity but it urges the public to be calm, saying fallout from present Soviet nuclear tests does not warrant "undue concern."

This statement from the public health service, aimed at dampening down public alarm, added that: "At every level of government, resources and programs are being expanded to cope with the potentially hazardous situation the government now faces."

Excuse Me: I've Lost My Notes

MONTREAL (CP) — Resources Minister Dineen was either far ahead of the times or far behind Wednesday during the unveiling of a statue to railway pioneer Sir William Van Horne.

Said Mr. Dineen at the ceremony: "I bring you greetings from Sir John A. . . . He caught himself . . . 'I mean from Sir Dief . . . ' He tried again . . . 'er, John Diefenbaker.'"

Mayor's Vote Could Cost City $150,000

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Mayor Percy Scurrah last night blocked construction of a $1,000,000 high-rise apartment and left Victoria open to a possible $150,000 damage claim.

He cast the deciding vote which defeated a proposed amendment to the city's high-rise zoning bylaw which would have allowed Wesco Construction Ltd. of Vancouver to build the 12-storey apartment on Douglas Street, overlooking Beacon Hill Park.

"This is a very difficult decision for me to make," he said deliberately. "I have made it before. I am going to vote against it. I am not convinced in my mind that the little fellow is not going to be hurt by the amendment."

THREE HOURS

Mayor Scurrah made his crucial decision after council spent some three hours on the problem. Two votes were called on whether or not the amendment should pass and Mayor Scurrah voted against the amendment both times.

A two-thirds majority of council was needed to approve the bylaw. Ald. Michael Griffin, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Millard Mooney and Ald. Arthur Dowell voted in favor.

THREE AGAINST

Voting against were Mayor Scurrah, Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean and Ald. Curtis. Ald. A. W. Toome was absent.

An issue was a section of the high-rise zoning bylaw which sets minimum spaces between buildings.

Owners of property in the high-rise zone claim the section applies to all buildings in the area, including existing buildings.

APPLY TO HIGH-RISE

City planner Roderick Clark contended the section was only intended to apply to high-rise apartments, and the proposed amendment both clarified the original intent and eased restrictions on existing, low buildings.

The council's decision in rejecting the amendment had many effects:

- Construction of the high-rise was totally blocked in its present form.

- Mr. Clark warned council he understood the company would not consider amending plans to continue with construction of the building.

- Ald. Edgelow warned that Wesco Construction could sue the city for damages to recover the $150,000 already spent after assurances by city officials that the building could be built.

- Ald. Mooney has given notice that he will ask the next meeting of city council to completely remove high-rise zoning from the area.

- Company officials have called a meeting for this morning to consider what action to take.

- Ald. Griffin warned that "the name of the city is at stake."

'That Dog Die I Gonna Die'

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Karo Gamble walked out of a jail cell yesterday to a joyful reunion with a little dog that won him his freedom.

The penniless vagrant, freed from a 90-day jail term because of his love for the mongrel puppy, picked up his pet at the city pound last night.

The 56-year-old Negro hugged and kissed the pup, named Waterloo. The dog wagged her tail and licked her master.

"I'm too happy to cry," Gamble said. "I got my dog back. Lord, I love it. That dog die, I gonna die."

Gamble was looking forward to a new start in a turbulent life. A week ago police came to his cardboard shack on a river bank, arrested him on a vagrancy charge and carted away Waterloo.

Municipal Judge Noble Peary suspended Gamble's sentence and fine. He reasoned that a man who loves a dog that much shouldn't be locked up.

B.C. Promised 'Significant' Cuts

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett last night promised "quite significant" reductions in electricity bills throughout the province early next year.

Specific amounts of the reductions are now in the process of being drafted.

"This is another great dividend given by Social Credit to the people of this province," he told a boisterous audience of delegates here for the annual Social Credit League convention.

QUITE SIGNIFICANT

"These rate reductions are going to be quite significant, my friends," he said during a fiery 90-minute speech in defense of the government's takeover of the B.C. Electric.

It appeared the premier was pulling out all stops to counter a move among certain elements within the party critical of the takeover.

CRITICS 'FRIENDS'

Premier Bennett lashed out at the press yet at the same time told the audience that critics were the best friends Social Credit has.

"We've got enemies everywhere in this province—but the great majority of voters are for us and that's what counts," he declared.

LITTLE MOVEMENT

Premier Bennett, who throughout his speech referred to Social Credit as "this little movement," charged that "paid mouthpieces" were trying to foment opposition to the government takeover of the B.C.E. "Why are they doing it?" he roared. "To unsettle the mind of the people of this province. These people pose as patriots. They're not patriots at all. They seek only personal gain for themselves."

ONLY WAY TO PRICE

Premier Bennett said the government had offered the high market price of $38 a share for B.C.E. shares and had not bought them at the going rate of $33 or $34 a share.

"That's the only way to price a company," he said.

He quoted a decision from the House of Lords which, he said, supported this course of action unanimously in a case in which a British company had been taken over by the Conservative government of Sir Winston Churchill in 1942.

NO COMPETITION

The B.C.E. had a monopoly, because there was no competition, he said, and its profits were controlled by Public Utilities Commission order.

For nine years, said the premier, "this little Social Credit movement" tried to get Ottawa to stop making the B.C.E. pay corporation taxes.

INDIVIDUAL PAID

"The company didn't pay them, the individual did," he said.

Ottawa, continued the premier, had right up to the last minute to change its stand but refused to do so.

DEMOCRATIC WAY

Premier Bennett said the legislature had passed the takeover bill unanimously and that the act was passed "in the best democratic way possible."

If one member on either side of the House had voted against it there would have been an immediate election.

"Do you think one of them voted against it?" said the premier. "No, because they were afraid of the cold water of a general election. They know this government would have won a greater majority than ever before in the history of this province. They would have been wiped out."

WISH ONE HAD STOOD

"I just wish one person had stood up against it—I would have had an election," he declared.

The premier said both Dr.

Put Gaglardi In Back Seat Party Urges

VANCOUVER—Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi's frequent scrapes with the traffic laws brought a novel suggested solution yesterday.

The Social Credit Women's Auxiliary unanimously approved a resolution calling upon the government to provide the speedy highways minister with both a chauffeur and helicopter.

LAW RATES

Shortly after Jan. 1, said the premier, new "low rates" would be put into effect in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and throughout the province.

"The amounts of these reductions are not mine to say," he said. "It is the duty of the directors of the two entities . . . we do not interfere. But these rate reductions are going to be quite significant, my friends."

Premier Bennett told his audience to look with favor on criticism.

"They say we're a dictatorship," he said. "Well if there are dictators there are thousands of them. We've got thousands of members. Of course our critics do not mean it . . . Every time they do these things we get thousands of new votes."

Labor Beats 'Plot'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A powerful moderate group of the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) Thursday scored an impressive sweep of 15 executive posts in the 100,000-member organization.

It successfully repelled by an almost two-to-one majority in every instance—an organized attempt by radical and Communist supporters to infiltrate the federation executive.

The moderates' slate, adopted in-caucus prior to the election of officers, was approved down the line.

Elected to the executive council was Al Staley, Victoria, of the Carpenters' Union.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

HERE is a funny thing about buses. They are either too big or too small.

In slack hours, when they run with half their seats empty, they are much too big. At rush hours, jammed with a suffocating mass of people, they are too small.

The answer? An elastic bus that can stretch or shrink according to need.

"Why don't you have buses with passenger trailers?" I asked a bus driver. "The basic component of a bus would be a small sawed-off vehicle, just a cab and engine and wheels.

"On this you would attach a passenger trailer of the size you wanted for that hour of the day—just as freight trailers are hooked on trucks.

"Alternatively, you might have a road-train—one medium-sized bus with a passenger coach that would hook on it for rush hours."

The bus driver looked skeptical. "Wouldn't work," he said. "You can never tell when there's going to be a rush of people at an unusual time."

Maybe the weather caused it, he suggested. Maybe the moon stirred up tides of people, as well as tides of water. Somehow or other, anyway, a crowd would materialize at an unexpected time and place, demanding transportation.

They came out of nowhere, like lemmings marching to the sea. What would happen when such a crowd appeared, and climbed aboard a small slack-hour bus?

That wouldn't cause much trouble, I thought. It would force some people to stand in the aisles during the middle of the morning or the middle of the afternoon. In general, however, it should mean less crowding and better service.

That's an amateur's opinion. But I speak with feeling. I have just spent part of my holidays shuttling between Victoria and Vancouver, and in both cities I have found myself wedged into rush-hour crowds in buses.

By the way, has anyone taken note of the plural of the word "bus"? Even at the University of British Columbia, where they should know better, I saw signs that said "Wait for busses here," or something to that effect.

Of course "busses" spelled with a double "s" means "kisses." I stood there waiting for some time, but all the pretty co-eds walked past me with noses in the air.

Don't Link Stroke With Special Event

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: So many of us have 'missed' something from cerebral thrombosis that I ask your comments as to the circumstances contributing to the first occurrence and repeated attacks.—R. R."

It's fruitless to try to connect a stroke with any particular occurrence. There might at times be a connection, but it is just about impossible to prove. Oh, we can be sure enough that exhaustion, cold or some other physical condition may play a part in inciting an attack but it's a contributing factor, not a cause.

Basic causes of stroke are a plugging of an artery in the brain (cerebral thrombosis) or a hemorrhage of one of the many blood vessels in the brain due to rupture of the vessel.

THEN NO MORE

A thrombosis is usually due to the narrowing of the arteries. A person may have one major attack and then no more or, at the other extreme, a person may have many so-called "little strokes," so slight there may be no indication that one has occurred at all.

Some smaller blood vessel light arteries, defects in the may become plugged without affecting important areas of the brain. The basis is the narrowing of the inside diameter of the blood vessels, which may lead to a thrombus, or clot, being caught in the narrowed portion.

ALSO A FACTOR

It is true that severe infections, typhoid, pneumonia or malaria, may help incite strokes. Intoxication from alcohol, carbon monoxide or other poisons can also be a factor, yet the underlying factor of impaired arteries must be present.

Until we learn more about the arteries, there isn't any way to prevent some hardening of them as we grow older.

But we can protect ourselves by maintaining good general health and avoiding or immediately treating such infections and poisons as I've mentioned.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In the last few weeks whenever I am sitting down, either with both feet flat on the floor or with my legs crossed, the soles of my feet begin to burn as though they were on fire.—J. R. H."

Shoes that don't fit properly, tight garters, defects in the may become plugged without affecting important areas of

Insurance Act Wins Approval

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Act passed second reading approval in principle, by a unanimous vote in the legislature Thursday. The compulsory, comprehensive plan would be financed in part through provincial income and corporation taxes.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Your article on diverticulitis has me wondering. I am 38 and have been troubled with hemorrhoids. I have my fruits and vegetables, only I'm wondering if they will harm me in any way.—R. G."

No. There's no connection between diverticulitis and hemorrhoids, so the fruits and vegetables will not harm you.

August Fatality

Seaman Quickly Acquitted

Final jury of the fall assizes here took only 10 minutes yesterday to find Charles William Logan, 432 Craigflower, innocent of a charge of criminally negligent driving last Aug. 19.

The jury, whose 11 male members had elected the lone woman juror as foreman, retired at 12:44 p.m. and returned with its verdict at 12:54 p.m.

Charge arose from the instant death in an accident of AB James Roy, 26, of Grimsby, England, crew member of the warship HMS Londonderry, then visiting Esquimalt.

FILES TO TESTIFY

One witness heard for seven minutes yesterday was Leading Engineer Mechanic Leonard Weightman, also of HMS Londonderry.

Weightman, who said he fell asleep and could remember little if anything of the accident in which he was a passenger, was flown back to Victoria from Curacao, Dutch West Indies, for the end of the preliminary hearing of the case and the trial.

Now he will be flown back to Curacao to await the return of his ship.

THANKED JURY

Mr. Justice J. O. Sullivan thanked the British seaman for making the long journey, and later thanked the jury for its services.

He also congratulated the male jurors on their election of a woman foreman. It was the first time in his experience that this had been done, he said.

More Blessed To Give? Not in Jail!

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Kucharczyk, said to have given away almost $1,000 to fellow prisoners while awaiting trial on a charge of malicious damage, was remanded Wednesday for mental examination.

Kucharczyk, 40, of Winnipeg, refused to leave the cell and appear in court for the remand, but was represented by lawyer Harold Chaplin.

Police were forced to break into a telephone booth in a downtown hotel to arrest Kucharczyk. Police said he had barricaded himself in and apparently was undressing and flashing money.

His lawyer said Kucharczyk told him he did not have $50 to pay for the damage to the booth because he had given his money away.

"He told me that 'these fellows here have their troubles and problems more than I, so I just gave my money away to them.' The man is apparently quite sick."

Job-School Aid Hiked

OTTAWA (UPI)—Labor Minister Starr last night announced a new schedule of increased allowances which the federal government is prepared to pay to unemployed persons taking vocational training courses.

Providing the provinces, which have to contribute one-quarter of the allowances, concur, the new rates offered to unemployed trainees will be:

• Married trainees living away from home, $30 per week.

• Married trainees living at home, $35 per week.

• Single trainees living at home, $15 per week.

Mr. Starr said that since the inception of allowances the number of unemployed persons taking vocational courses has doubled.

Punishment Urged For Soviet Rebels

V. M. MOLOTOV

Molotov Irked Witch-Hunt Followed Car Mishap

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Vyacheslav Molotov's car slid into a rut in Siberia one day in 1934 and this resulted in the arrest and trial of innocent people on charges of trying to murder the former Soviet foreign minister, the government newspaper Izvestia said last night.

The incident was reported to the 22nd Soviet Communist Party congress by ex-president Nikolai Shvernik, a member of the party presidium.

Shvernik said "no one" was hurt and "nobody knew better than Molotov that there had been no attempt on his life. But he did not utter a word in defence of the innocent people."

U.K. Favors UN Move To Berlin

LONDON (AP)—Britain has swung around in favor of proposals to transfer some key United Nations agencies to Berlin as part of a Berlin settlement with Russia.

Senior British officials, reporting this yesterday, said the idea might shortly be investigated further at informal American-British contacts with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow.

The informants said the American-British-Soviet exchanges on Berlin probably will begin again after the current 22nd congress of the Russian Communist Party ends in a week or so.

AUSIE. CAPITAL

Australia's national capital city of Canberra has doubled its population since 1954, reaching 56,000.

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia's battered anti-party group was hit hard again Thursday when the Soviet secret police chief accused it of bearing "personal responsibility for the physical destruction" of top Communists.

Chairman Alexander Shelepin of the state security committee, who made the charge before the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress, also said the time has come to ask the party control commission to consider bringing the disgraced "Stalinist" group of one-time Soviet leaders to "strictest responsibility."

NON-REDS BARRED

The meeting was closed to non-Communist journalists. The official Soviet news agency Tass and Moscow radio issued selected portions of Shelepin's address.

Tass reported that "touching on the criminal activity of the routed anti-party group, Shelepin adduced new facts showing that the members of this group carried a personal responsibility for the extermination of prominent members of the Soviet Communist party and Soviet state."

"TRACES EVERYWHERE" He also attacked the "imperialist" intelligence services for allegedly intensifying subversive activity. He said "the traces of the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States can be seen everywhere."

Since the session's start last week congress speakers have been smashing away at the anti-party group, calling for expulsion of its members from the party.

THREE UNDER FIRE

In the last few days the demand has centred on ex-foreign minister V. M. Molotov, dubbed the group's ideological leader; former heavy industries boss Lazar Kaganovich, and ex-premier Georgi Malenkov. The group was "routed" by Premier Khrushchev in 1957, four years after Premier Josef Stalin died.

RECALL SEEN

Molotov, 71, is now permanent Soviet delegate to the international atomic energy agency in Vienna. Agency officials believed Molotov would be recalled to Moscow soon.

A Soviet official there said Thursday that while Molotov was absent from his agency office—for the first time since the congress attacks on him began—he was still in Vienna.

Inquiry Ordered Into Dag's Death

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly yesterday ordered a special investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in a plane crash in Africa Sept. 18.

It was decided to set up a commission of five prominent persons to undertake the inquiry and report back within three months.

The resolution asked for particular light on the following aspects of Hammarskjöld's death: in Northern Rhodesia on a Congo peace mission:

1. Why was the flight undertaken at night without escort?

2. Why was the arrival of his plane at Ndola unduly delayed?

3. Whether the plane after having established contact with the tower at Ndola lost contact, and why the fact of its having crashed did not become known until several hours afterwards?

4. Whether after the damage it was reported to have suffered earlier from firing by hostile aircraft the plane was in proper condition for use.

Not Yet Desperate

THE OVERWHELMING vote of the UN's main political committee against the Soviet Union's massive nuclear bomb tests should show that country what most of the world thinks of its callous disregard of the fallout menace. There is no certainty that Russia will pay heed to the appeal to cancel its planned super-bomb explosion but even the Kremlin cannot entirely ignore the trend of majority opinion in the UN.

The tenacious tactics of the Soviet delegate to prevent the vote being taken indicates its awareness of the unfavorable climate these tests have created.

Even without this scheduled 50-megaton explosion enough radioactive fallout has poisoned the atmosphere in recent weeks to alarm the human world as never before. There is sharper and more general unease among all civil populations likely to be harmfully affected.

No unanimity is to be found among authorities best able to measure the degree of danger resulting from the Soviet Union's current series of nuclear tests, but at least one reassuring word has come from one of Canada's top scientists. So far, he says, there is no real cause for undue concern in this country.

Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the national Defence Research Board, does not attempt to gloss over so serious a matter and he points out that all radioactive fallout is bad, but he is not alarmed personally. The situation could of course become worse if nuclear testing on such a large scale continued, but meantime "the fallout has not reached levels where there is need to worry."

His view, an authoritative one, should help to allay some of the near-panic that seems almost to be affecting some circles and thus spreading unwarranted despair. The point of no return has not yet been reached. The situation is serious but not yet desperate.

More weight than ever is therefore given to the UN's appeal to the Soviet Union to bring these tests to an end while there is yet time. By all accounts the Russian people are kept uninformed about them but the Kremlin must know that the fallout menaces its own people and perhaps to a greater degree than others.

This alone, surely, should induce it to think twice about its nuclear weapon testing.

Paving the Way

THE SECURITY COUNCIL'S approval of United Nations membership for the Communist state of Outer Mongolia has substantially improved Red China's chances of admission to the world body within the near future.

In deciding not to use their powers of veto against Outer Mongolia's application, both the United States and Nationalist China have publicly admitted defeat of one of their strongest arguments in favor of denying United Nations representation to the Peking regime.

To date the United States and Nationalist China have argued that there are three basic reasons why Communist China should not be granted UN membership: that China still stands branded by the UN as an aggressor nation in the Korean war under a General Assembly resolution of 1951; that it does not conform with the "peace-loving" standard set forth in the UN Charter, and that the Peking regime is not the legal government of the Chinese people.

It is on this latter point that the United States and the Nationalist Chinese government have now created an anomaly by their acceptance of Outer Mongolia as a separate Chinese state.

Therefore, logically—if logic plays a part in their stubborn attitude toward Communist China—neither the American government nor the Formosan government can fail to recognize Communist China as yet another separate Chinese state.

True, both the United States and Nationalist China acted under extreme pressure to allow the admission of Outer Mongolia—pressure applied by the U.S.S.R. who made it clear it would veto Mauritania's admission if the United States or Nationalist China attempted to veto Outer Mongolia's application.

Rather than risk this impasse and incur the wrath of the Afro-Asian bloc supporting Mauritania, the Americans and Nationalists gave way.

It is not too difficult to envisage similar pressures being brought to play to ensure the entry of Communist China within the near future—pressure that both the United States and Nationalist China will find almost impossible to resist. Particularly now that they have reversed their stand on the sovereignty of separate Chinese nations.

Nonsensical Criticism

BECAUSE a valve fault prevented an undercarriage door from closing properly in an RCAF Comet carrying Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the plane returned to Vancouver and because the same aircraft developed engine trouble and turned back last month while carrying two cabinet ministers, a Vancouver member of Parliament has called the RCAF inept and a disgrace to the nation.

The member, Mr. William Payne, ought to be ashamed of himself.

As Mr. Payne should be able to observe, the aircraft has not yet been built, nor the ship nor the car nor any machine, which even with the most expert and most careful of servicing will not unpredictably malfunction in some respect.

It is a stroke of ill luck that the same plane has twice within two months had trouble sufficient to cause the pilot cautiously to turn back; the ill luck as far as the RCAF is concerned is compounded by the fact that this aircraft's passengers are usually of such prominence that turning back is bound to attract attention.

But there is nothing unusual about pilots, commercial and military, finding unexpected faults in their aircraft just before takeoff, with resultant delays, or finding them while in the air and landing for the safety of their passengers. It happens so frequently that normally there is little publicity.

It is almost beyond belief, and there is no evidence, that the RCAF has been careless in its inspection and maintenance of the Comet aircraft, and surely Mr. Payne would not have had the pilot carry on over the Pacific with a defect in his plane which could have led to further trouble.

Under the circumstances, he cannot be excused for his excited and immoderate attack.

Thinking Aloud

"... of sheet, and ships, and sailing wax."

By TOM TAYLOR

THEY make things easier for ship-launching sponsors than for long was the case. And, maybe, about time. There never was good reason why a lady naming a vessel should require the perfect aim of a baseball pitcher.

You remember the ordeal that faced a former principal of the christening ceremonies. She had to swing the champagne bottle while pronouncing the baptismal name and hit the bow before the ship receded down the ways.

And if she missed?

One lady in a far-off yard, for instance, swung mightily as she voiced the traditional "I name this ship..." and the bottle at the end of its silken ribbon went a yard wide, forcing the excruciable but loud ejaculation "... Dammit."

An unofficial name which doubtless stuck to this vessel for ever.

But this is the press-button age and shipbuilders take care to save modern sponsors any such embarrassment. So it was therefore that without apprehension Mrs. Percy Scurrell could extend a forefinger as she christened Mv. City of Victoria this week—and mechanics did the rest.

The champagne container smashed against the bow and made a nice splash. "What a waste," remarked an alien and apparently thirsty soul beside the.

Mind you, it wasn't the vintage of a foreign vineyard in this instance. No indeed. This was an all-embracing B.C. show and the liquid was from the Okanagan.

Home wine for a home ship built by the skillful hands of home shipwrights to sail in home waters. What could be more appropriate?

And how well these VMD men build. The lines of a car ferry are not those of a private yacht or the silhouette of a fancy liner. Of necessity the City of Victoria has a bulbous look—on land. But then most ships if you see them from below, as in dry dock, remind you of the duck on terra firma.

It is when they enter their natural habitat, the water, that ships assume the elegance that makes them feminine. Come next year when this latest addition to the ferry fleet approaches Swartz Bay she will move with the majestic bearing proper to her maritime status.

Nevertheless when the City of Victoria slid down the ways, seemingly eager to level off and display her graceful balance, she was cause for admiration. And, perhaps, of choking sentiment, for this was the culmination of high endeavor, of long weeks of inspired creation.

There is drama to the occasion too, a weling of emotion as the whistles blow and the ship begins to move. There is no fear she will sink below the waves she makes; sound judgment has seen to that. But it is a climactic moment.

I saw an onlooker wipe something off his cheek and I didn't laugh.

I must say, though, that a certain injustice is done these lovely ladies of the sea, and not only in our yards. They are forced to back into the waters that will be their permanent home.

Now this isn't really quite the thing. A sea maiden shouldn't have to retreat; her counterpart on land usually goes blithely forward. Although I suppose it's true enough that a lady likes you to say farewell to her face.

Even when she's leaving you and not you her.

It could be worse though. In some yards they slide her into the waters sideways, which is a most inelegant introduction to the sea. Dunking, if so it can be called, should observe the niceties of social protocol.

However it is labor of love that fashions a ship and I'm sure the unseen spirit of all vessels gives thanks as they are eased gently into the sea. As, smoothly and with faultless technique, was Mv. City of Victoria.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

TWO or three times in the past year, in dealing with such things as public utilities, government departments or large corporations, I have run up against the latest phenomenon—the cool calm, collected woman executive. And my experience has been that these ladies end up by bawling everything up completely.

They are very quick, very short, very commanding. They know before you are half through what it is you are trying to say. They are alert, decisive, assured. They waste no time. Result: a shambles. A week later, you have to go and see somebody else.

And that somebody else is the one you should have seen in the first place: a quiet, feminine, rather shy and tentative young woman who listens to all your blather with grace and patience and even sympathy. And before you go out the door, the whole matter has been cleared up.

Woman's greatest contribution to the prosperity of business has been their womanliness.

A Faintly Sinister World

Life and Death, Incorporated

By CASSANDEA, from Santa Monica

LESS than a quarter of a mile from where the long rollers of the Pacific Ocean hit the golden sands of California there is a large, low building constructed in the manner of a modern factory. It houses a group of people—some 500 persons—who are engaged in a strange and faintly sinister world of pure thought.

This is the Rand Corporation of America. The very best minds in the United States and men of great intellectual horsepower work here in an atmosphere of relaxed calm to advise the president and the U.S. government on how to deal with this tormented world.

One part of the corporate brain of Rand seeks, with all the energy and brilliance it can command, to destroy the world in blast of fire and the devils of radiation and fall-out sickness. The other, with the arms of compassion and understanding seeks to rescue mankind from the torments of cancer.

The mixture is grotesque. A treatise on the design of the nose-cone of a satellite next to a profound thesis on the correct type of pasture to grow in certain soil and weather conditions for a firm of tinned milk manufacturers; a study

Grotesque...

THE U.S. is taking a long, hard look at its relationship with the so-called neutrals, especially Poland, Yugoslavia and Ghana.

And President Kennedy, leader of the Western world, meets India's Prime Minister Nehru, leader of the neutrals' world, in a crucial confrontation next month.

There is a feeling growing in Washington that the U.S. should be more selective in giving aid and should withhold it from the bad boys who don't toe the line.

This has happened so far: The United States has suspended negotiations with Poland on a three-year commitment to deliver grain. The Poles say it is because they back Russia on Berlin. (Canada has just completed a $20,000,000 wheat deal with Poland.)

President Kennedy has ordered a complete review of U.S. policy toward another Communist country, Yugoslavia, because of dissatisfaction over President Tito's remarks at the neutralist convention in Belgrade last month.

An outcry has arisen over sale to Belgrade of 130 surplus Sabre jet fighter aircraft and training of Yugoslav pilots in Texas.

The United States is reconsidering massive aid for of titanium base alloys joining up with a reference work on the economy of France, a dissertation on congenital abnormality alongside an investigation into the fuel problems of oil refineries.

But behind these learned and varied reflections the main business of Rand is war and the ruin of the world.

One of the most able men at Rand is Albert Wohlstetter. He has written a remarkable study on the problems of World War Three—certainly the last of the grisly series. The title is blood-chilling—"The Delicate Balance of Terror."

The theme is equally ominous. It is largely the enormous advantage that thermo-nuclear weapons give to an aggressor—the temptation of putting the deadly surprise punch in first.

He says: "The risk of not striking might at some juncture appear very great to the Soviets, involving, for example, disastrous defeat in peripheral war, loss of key satellites with danger of revolt spreading—possibly to Russia itself—or, fear of an attack by ourselves. Then, striking first by surprise would be the sensible choice for them, and from their point of view, the smaller risk."

Another brilliant physicist at Rand is Herman Kahn. His contemplations, writings and lectures are on the same sombre theme. The subjects have the cataclysmic ring of horror:

"Will the Survivors Envy the Dead?"

"How Much Tragedy is Acceptable?"

"Can Society bear the Economic Burdens caused by the Increased Sickness, Malformations and Deaths?"

Mr. Kahn, who deals in the probability—or the certainty—of scores of millions of people being killed in a thermo-nuclear war, has for convenience sake had to invent a new word for a million corpses. It is "Megadeath."

Their Duty

You cannot criticize the studies of these men. They could well claim to be doing their patriotic duty—although they would probably agree that, if the worst came to the worst, there would be precious little left to be patriotic about. But you can criticize the madness of mankind that has brought about this state of affairs.

The professors at Rand are faced with the increasingly intractable problem of a brawling Soviet Union probing for weaknesses in an eminently well-armed adversary, the United States.

Or, as the first great atomic bomb scientist Robert Oppenheimer put it, the problem is five dangerous scorpions corked up together in a bottle.

If ever the Rand Corporation has to put into practice the results of its military games, played with such unsharpened finesse to the accompaniment of the music of computers, then the twentieth century world will be ready for its epitaph:

"THEY ASKED FOR IT. THEY GOT IT."

Powerful Voice

By ROBERT BETTS

SQUEEZED into one corner of a quiet square in Westminster—a stone's throw from Britain's Houses of Parliament—is a sombre-looking building known as Transport House.

The silence is deceptive. From Transport House a voice that thunders throughout the land—the powerful voice of the Trades Union Congress. It makes itself heard on practically every aspect of national life. Lately it has been heard in America too.

It was the TUC, protesting loudly at "the bomb" and U.S. bases in Britain, that split the British Labor Party and forced it to call for a unilateral disarmament policy. It was a humiliating defeat for the party's parliamentary leader, Hugh Gaitskell, who supports the Conservative government on this issue.

This month, however, Gaitskell saw his party reverse that decision. At its annual conference it passed a resolution realigning itself with the Atlantic alliance.

But it was again following the lead of the TUC, which had performed a similar turnabout a few weeks earlier. Such is the influence of the TUC in Britain.

It speaks for the nation's trade union movement. Some 9,300,000 workers belong to the 185 unions which are affiliated with TUC. The unions range from small craft units with fewer than 100 members to giants like the 1,250,000-strong Transport and General Workers' Union.

It was the TGWU, with forceful ex-truckdriver Frank Cousins at its head, which led the disarmament movement.

The union groups with their bloc votes and their $240,000,000 fund are the real backbone of the Labor party. In fact they gave birth to it. The TUC, formed in 1875, is one of the world's oldest national trade union centres. Its oldest and strongest unions are mine, railway and boiler-making. They usually get their way on any issue they raise.

The supreme policy-making and co-ordinating body for all the unions—the voice which speaks on employee welfare—is the TUC's 35-member General Council.

The unions played a major part in helping to create Britain's welfare state with its maze of social security benefits. And it is in the unions that the Communists who are officially banned as members of the Labor party, have been able to play their most sinister role. Skilful agitators, nibbling at widespread apathy among rank-and-file members, have fostered stoppages and strikes. They have helped to sabotage Britain's efforts to compete in world markets.

The same Communist influence has been heavily weighted in favor of disarmament.

But the recent discovery of Communist ball-tugging in one section of the TUC—the Electrical Trade Union—alerted union members to the danger in their midst. While they are prepared to struggle for socialist ideals they do not intend to hand over their freedom to some destructive foreign ideology.

The last TUC conference saw the expulsion of the ETU by a huge majority, and the defeat of the sole Communist member of the General Council. At the same meeting, its extreme leftists were last year won strong support for their disarmament and neutralist policy were overwhelmingly defeated.

Now that TUC has decided to support NATO and nuclear weapons, the Labor party is able to do likewise.

The red light has changed to green for Gaitskell.

A Memory For Faces

MR. HAROLD MACMILLAN'S nephew, brother and former Tory candidate John Cobbold, has been telling this story about an elderly man who said to his uncle:

"Don't I know your face? Grenadier Guards?"

"Very likely, I suppose," replied the prime minister.

"On the Somme?"

"Yes."

The questioner brightened.

"I've got you, Lieutenant Macmillan. Never forget a face. Well, Macmillan, what have you been doing with yourself all these years?"

Smutty Books

Permit me to congratulate your reporter Jim Taylor, in particular, and The Colonist in general for his excellent article "Smut Unlimited" which appeared in the Oct. 25 number of your paper.

Every freedom-loving citizen looks with apprehension at censorship on reading material. It smacks too much of the regimentation of the totalitarian state. But surely a self-respecting, responsible civilization has a right to some protection against the irresponsible writer with the lewd mind who pours this stream of literary filth into our culture. That it exerts a devastating influence is beyond question. Young people especially, lacking the balance that only experience over the years can give, are being led downhill by these foul books. Broken lives, illegitimate babies, heartache and misery follow.

From my own limited investigation I know that many bookshelves are not happy about some of the titles on their shelves. I have known individuals who have refused to put certain books on display, thus suffering financial loss. Your reporter deserves the warmest commendation for his column on this matter, and here is one citizen of Victoria who is giving it.

School Buildings

Alderman Curtis and certain other officials are to be congratulated on their stand against the proposed expenditure of close to $4,000,000 for the building of additional rooms for a number of schools, the purchase of six new school sites and of "needed equipment" in several schools. This works out at over $30,000 each for these additions, etc. — what we must consider a preposterous amount. We are all in favor of spending what is proved necessary, but object to such "frills" as "electric blackboard wipers," etc., etc.

Mr. Gelling states that the addition to our yearly tax bill (on an average house) will be about $2.80, and that the other half of the expenditure will be borne by the "government," but let us not forget that what the kind "government" pays us, is borne by us taxpayers!

In addition to this we are threatened with an unwarranted increase in the salaries of teachers, who are already being paid high salaries.

Add to these facts the increases in wages to civic employees, police, firemen, etc., and the total additional wage list in the last few years has become an unbearable burden on thousands of us taxpayers on fixed and very moderate incomes.

WALTER T. KEEBLE.

1428 Denman Street.

Editor's note: There are no such "frills" as "electric blackboard wipers" in the school building program.

College Paper

Stop the press! In your Sunday, Oct. 15 edition of The Daily Colonist you published an interesting article entitled "Varsity Newspaper Ends Long Record of Failure." This article states in part "since University (Vic College) began in 1903 no college paper has lasted more than two editions — one edited by Pierre Berton, Toronto columnist, but it had to shut down during World War Two."

Who's your research man? Back in 1947-48, when the veterans swelled the halls of old Vic College, there was in existence probably the best edited, best written, most prolific and controversial college paper ever known. It was called the Microscope and it went to press once a week, and none of this "every other Tuesday" routine. As I recall, Jack Saywell (now professor of history at the University of Toronto) was editor in chief, and the following were news editors: Chuck Perrin (now commander RCN), Randy Evans (now sales manager for Canada Packers), Joan Churchill (whereabouts unknown), and myself. In addition, David Kerr was advertising manager and Connie Armstrong was staff artist. That was a college paper, that was!

Ontario Murder Trial

Human Bloodstains Found on Pillow

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — Three human bloodstains were found in the cabin of a man charged with murdering his wife more than nine years ago, chemical analyst Henry Funk testified yesterday.

Mr. Funk, from the attorney-general's laboratory, said the stains were found on two pillows taken in January of this year from the now abandoned cabin on Bruce Peninsula in Georgian Bay.

BOX FOUND

He appeared at the fourth day of the trial of Arthur James Kendall, 51-year-old farmer and carpenter, charged with the capital murder of his 33-year-old wife Helen Aug. 2, 1952.

Insp. Leonard Neil of Toronto, a member of the provincial police said earlier a cardboard box containing a woman's clothing was found under cedar trees adjacent to Kendall's farm in 1952.

IDENTIFIED

Insp. Neil testified he showed the clothing to Kendall, his daughter Margaret and a neighbor, all of whom identified it as belonging to Mrs. Kendall.

Another witness Thursday was Thomas Edward Hogue of Walkerton, former husband of Beatrice Hogue, whom Kendall married in 1960.

Hogue said he divorced his wife in 1954, naming Kendall as co-respondent.

Dr. Chisholm Says

'Only Red China Real Peace Threat'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Communist China is the only country that is a real threat to peace today, says Brock Chisholm.

Dr. Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization, said in an address to Congregation Beth Israel Wednesday that Russia and the Communist countries of eastern Europe believe they will win the world to their way of life without having to resort to war.

Communist China suffered a tremendous loss of face in being denied UN membership and now feels it must prove it is a world power, he said.

Graduates 'Launched' Into Front Line Fight

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Norman Mackenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, Thursday described the members of a graduating class as front-line troops in a world war to win the minds of men.

"You go on to your careers at one of the most critical moments in history... in a world in which the war is being fought for many years," he told 648 graduates at the annual fall congregation.

He said that as Canadians with special training and aptitudes, the graduates will be intellectual soldiers at the forefront of that war.

Dr. Mackenzie urged them to be ready to make sacrifices and concessions for the benefit of the less fortunate.

"If your years at this university have given you nothing more than a desire to possess the material things then we have failed you and you us," he said.

Six honorary degrees were awarded at the congregation.

Like Irish Wake

CCF Given Noisy Burial

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial CCF party's going-away bash had all the earmarks of an Irish wake.

Sometimes it was raucous. A few cusswords were exchanged.

Sometimes it was melancholy as the old boys recalled the history of the socialist movement. And there was a good fight over the will.

VOTED OUT

But in the end, the intent was carried out as nearly 200 delegates and visitors voted the Commonwealth Co-operative Federation out of political existence in B.C., while at the same time keeping themselves in the political arena, with new allies and a new name.

OLD HANDS DEIFIED

Today, most of the same delegates will join about 300 more from organized labor and New Party clubs in launching the B.C. section of the New Democratic Party, the CCF-labor merger which became a national organization in Ottawa last August.

The CCF party's one-day final provincial convention

Thursday approved a resolution, over opposition from many of the older CCF adherents and from Cranbrook MLA Leo Nimsick, under which the CCF is merged with the New Democratic Party.

ASSETS AND DEFICIT

It took with it into the NDP (fixed assets worth an estimated $200,000, although these remain under legal ownership of holding societies established under the CCF, and a $4,700 deficit from the provincial CCF headquarters.

Mr. Nimsick was the most outspoken in opposing the move into the NDP.

"We were proud of the Regina manifesto," he said, recalling the statement of out-and-out socialism upon which the CCF was founded 28 years ago at a meeting in Regina.

DIFFICULTY STRESSED

"We have built a strong CCF, especially in the west, and it is difficult in this province especially to change a name that has been accepted as part of our political history," he said.

FAST DEAD Dave Bartlett, young social worker and now serving his first term of office as member of the legislature for Dewdney, countered Mr. Nimsick's remarks.

"The past is dead and will remain dead and the sooner we realize it the better off we'll be," he said. "We don't want to play around with swan songs and old wounds and bitter memories."

Renounce GATT — Lord Barnby

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — A Canadian Woolen and Knitting Goods Manufacturers Association.

A prosperous market provided the essential foundation for an effective export market, and vigorous home sales were needed as a basis for competitive export pricing, Lord Barnby said.

The dominant influence in the textile industry was the competition from Japan and other low-wage countries, he added.

"Statemen must recognize that this demanding puzzle calls for a solution," he said.

Lord Barnby said Japanese import tariffs had been doubled this year thus keeping home market prices at "artificially high levels."

Canada Council Grants

Foreign Lecturers To Teach in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council announced yesterday it has awarded grants to seven distinguished lecturers from abroad to teach this year at Canadian universities.

At the same time, the council announced grants to assist two Canadian university professors to visit universities in the United States and the United Kingdom.

The council spent $46,000 last year in a similar program, designed to facilitate the exchange of persons and ideas between Canada and other countries.

Travel grants were awarded to Dr. W. A. Riddell of Regina College, University of Saskatchewan, and Prof. J. K. Watson, University College, University of Western Ontario, London.

Professor Toshiko Izutsu, of Keio University, Tokyo, will lecture at McGill University. Professor Maurice Allais and Professor Paul Mercier, both of the Université de Paris, and Dr. Pierre Roumequeure, of the National Centre of Science Research, Paris, will teach at Laval University.

Dr. Alexandre Lamfalussy, economic adviser to the Bank of Brussels, will lecture at the University of Montreal. The French author, Veronique, and Dr. Paul M. Sweezy, a New York political scientist, will lecture at the University of Saskatchewan.

WELL MEANING HUSBAND CAN BE A TYRANT

Can an easy-going, generous and otherwise "perfect" husband actually be a tyrant without realizing it? Marriage counselor Dr. Harold K. Pink says well-meaning husbands often are tyrants without having the slightest idea they are household dictators. Housewives will want to read this feature article in the current issue of The Star Weekly. And if anyone makes sense of their husbands read it.

City's Credit Rating Good

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonial Business Editor

The credit rating of the City of Victoria was proved to rank right at the top of Canadian cities of a comparable size, when it borrowed money yesterday at slightly less than 3 1/2 per cent.

The city had 10 separate syndicates bidding for $25,000,138 worth of 5 1/2 per cent serial debentures (1962-1978) and the winning bid of $100.53 per cent came from Wood Gundy and Company Limited.

The winners took the piece narrowly from A. E. Ames and Co. Limited which had bid $100.47 per cent.

An official of Wood Gundy said later that the whole issue had been sold, and he attributed the price his company had been willing to pay for the bonds to be a tribute to the city financing.

He added that Victoria and London stood paramount among Canadian cities of their size in the estimation of the investor.

BOOST FOR MacMILLAN

Thanks largely to the more favorable dollar exchange rate since last July, the net profit of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Limited in the third quarter of 1961 rose by $1,886,716 from the same quarter of 1960.

The net profit for the period was $7,554,829 (36 cents a share) against $5,668,113 (27 cents a share) in the third quarter of 1960.

For the nine months of 1961, MacMillan is running ahead of a year ago for the first time. The good third quarter enabled them to catch up on the slow first half.

The nine months net profit to Sept. 30 is reported at $19,706,054 (95 cents a share) against $18,518,724 (89 cents) a year ago.

J. V. Clyne, chairman, said the volume of shipments by the company was little changed in the third quarter, and the big gain in the quarter's sales of nearly $4,000,000 was due largely to the advantageous dollar exchange.

Sales for the nine months period are $222,841,007 against $220,231,456 a year ago.

BANK RATE CHANGE

Bank of Canada rediscount rate for the current week is 2.75 per cent, up 0.01 per cent from last week's 2.74 per cent.

HITTING THE TARGET

Net profit of Imperial Oil Limited in the first nine months of 1961 was $48,007,000 ($1.52 a share) compared with $46,000,000 ($1.48) in the corresponding period of 1960.

Improved earnings were due to an increase of 17 per cent in crude oil production, and president W. O. Twiss said he expected the Canadian oil industry would meet the 640,000 barrels a day oil production target set for 1961 under the national oil policy.

EARLY RETIREALS

E. D. Sutcliffe, former general manager of the marketing division of B.C. Electric, has been appointed executive director of planning and research by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. He is replacing I. A. Andrews, former Powell River official who is retiring after 41 years' service.

Also retiring from MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River is J. A. Kyles, vice-president in charge of administration and company secretary. Both are leaving about two years before reaching official retirement age.

GOOD START FOR BOARD

The first report on the sales of Canada Savings Bonds by payroll deduction shows that the B.C. total of $6,565,000 from 21,561 applications is already 46 per cent of last year's total.

Last year, $14,500,000 was raised in the province by payroll deduction and the regional director George Sherwood is confident this year's total will be as large.

BIG CHEVSELER LOSS

Chrysler Corporation which made a net profit of $23,100,000 in the first three quarters of 1960 is running a $20,500,000 loss so far this year. Third quarter loss was reported yesterday at $4,800,000.

EARNING LOWER

Sheritt Gordon Mines Ltd. reports net earnings of $1,016,000 (8.9 cents a share) for the third quarter of 1961, compared with $1,130,000 (10 cents) a year ago.

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Research Board scientists soon will undertake a series of Canadian rocket firings from an American launching site, officials disclosed Thursday.

Use of the American base—Wallops Island, Va., station of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration—was made necessary by a fire last February which destroyed a considerable part of the rocket range facilities at Fort Churchill, Man.

The rockets to be launched will be 12 Canadian Black Brants developed by the Defence Research Board for upper atmosphere research. The firings are expected to complete the rocket's development state.

Two will be fired next month, two more in February, six in April and two in May.

CLOSE LIAISON

The Defence Research Board and the U.S. space agency have been working together closely for some years. The space agency next year will put into orbit for the board a Canadian-built satellite designed to investigate the top layers of the ionosphere, an electrically-charged belt 60 to 300 miles above the earth.

JOINT USE MADE

The Fort Churchill range for upper atmosphere research by means of high-altitude rockets was built by the U.S. for use during the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year and, subsequently, arrangements were made for joint U.S.-Canadian operation of the range.

If the present version of the Black Brant is successful, the board may go to a two-stage rocket which would reach 600 miles into space.

Bad Cheque Paid For Car

Norman McKenzie, no fixed address, yesterday was found guilty in Esquimalt police court on a charge of false pretences, involving purchase of a car with a worthless cheque.

A considerable record in both B.C. and the U.S. was read out, before McKenzie was remanded to Tuesday for sentence.

He was found guilty of buying a car, priced at $1,495, from Suburban Motors Ltd., 3393 Douglas, and giving as part payment a cheque for $1,100 which later proved worthless.

In the same court Herman Henry, Cole Bay, pleaded guilty to being an Indian in possession of liquor off the reservation. He was fined $10.

Thomas Hammond, New Westminster, yesterday was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, concurrent, on each of four charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Offences occurred on the night of Sept. 23-24 at the Chamber of Commerce, Douglas Street; Maison George beauty salon, Port Street; Independent Order of Foresters, Quadra Street, and International Business Machines, Douglas Street.

Raymond Bland, no fixed address, was sentenced in city court Wednesday to three months in jail for theft of five pairs of socks from the T. Eaton Company store.

Bland said he was under the influence of liquor at the time and did not realize what he was doing.

Landslide Kills 31 in Train

CLC Asked To Act On A-Arms

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor yesterday called upon the Canadian Labor Congress to seek federal government action declaring Canada's stand against nuclear arms.

Delegates proposed that all nations who do not now possess such weapons sign a treaty, undertaking to renounce the possession of nuclear arms.

Plant Chief Testifies At Brandon

BRANDON (CP)—Gilbert M. Adams, co-manager of Brandon Packers Ltd., Thursday completed four days of testimony at the conspiracy, theft and fraud trial of Toronto businessmen Hugh Paton and D. Hubert Cox.

The jury was out six times during the day as counsel argued over the admissibility of evidence.

Mr. Adams said he had revamped the accounting system of Brandon Packers Ltd. after he joined the organization in 1957.

Child Tips Boiling Water Over Herself in Kitchen

A four-year-old girl who tipped a pan of boiling water over herself yesterday was being treated for second degree burns at St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

Hospital officials said Debra Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Matthews, 941 Gault, was in good condition although her back was badly burned.

Mrs. Matthews said Debra was playing with a cardboard box near the kitchen stove.

She doesn't seem too seriously burned, but the doctor says she will be in hospital for 10 days, Mrs. Matthews was playing with a cardboard box near the kitchen stove.

Burning Ships Head for Shore

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two badly damaged and burning freighters with 101 crew members aboard steamed slowly toward shore late Thursday after colliding in dense fog 60 miles north of San Francisco.

Crew members aboard the more seriously damaged vessel, the Hoegh Cape of Norway, battled flames as the listing ship crept toward Point Reyes with a gaping hole in her starboard bow.

Adenauer's Plans Upset

BONN (Reuters)—Attempts to form a coalition government of Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats and the Free Democrats collapsed Thursday and negotiators named no new date for renewed bargaining.

The failure of Thursday's three-hour meeting meant the end to plans for Adenauer to be re-elected chancellor next Monday.

Paris Strike Paralyzes Transport

PARIS (Reuters)—More than 500,000 French workers went on strike for more pay, cutting air, rail and road transport throughout the country to a trickle and virtually paralyzing Paris suburban traffic.

Walkouts by garbage collectors, street cleaners and other public service employees added to the near-chaos.

Movie Club to Meet

Regular monthly meeting of Victoria Amateur Movie Club will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at Norway House, 1180 Hillside.

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
CIUDAD TRUJILLO (CNS)—Does the Dominican Republic have the makings of another Cuba?

The exodus of two brothers of the late Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo Wednesday is ominously reminiscent of the hurried trip abroad by Cuban President Batista's family late in 1958.

Reports from the island of Hispaniola, which the Dominican Republic shares with Haiti, also tell of increasing activity of anti-American "Castroites."

Obviously, if the late dictator's son, Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., the rest of his family and the top Dominican military commanders were to leave the republic, and the extremists, of whom there are plenty, were to take over, there might well be "another Cuba."

The symptoms are there. But that could be exactly the impression young Trujillo, now the island strong man, is trying to create.

As opposition Dominicans explain it, "Ramfis," as the 33-year-old Trujillo is known, hopes to use U.S. fears of chaos and communism in the republic to perpetuate himself in power.

Anti-American demonstrations and the smearing of hammer and sickle signs around Ciudad Trujillo, according to opposition Dominicans, were perpetrated by the government to create the impression that the Communists are far stronger than they really are.

Chinese Ready To Admit Split With Moscow

PEKING (Reuters)—Communist China is on the verge of openly admitting a split in the world Communist movement, diplomatic sources said here Thursday.

The report came as the Chinese press gave details of the denunciation of Peking's ally, Albania, at the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow and of Albanian replies to the charges.

READY TO TALK

The sources said China, after denying the existence of a rift for the last 16 months, is ready to announce that it stands with Albania against Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other Communist leaders at the congress.

APPLY TO CHINESE

Few diplomats here—including those from Eastern Europe—expect it will be long before Chinese and Soviet leaders acknowledge that the accusations levelled against Albania also apply to the Chinese.

The sudden return home of Premier Chou En-lai from the Moscow congress was still unexplained.

TEXTS PUBLISHED

Diplomatic observers were surprised at the publication in the Peking People's Daily Thursday of the full texts of attacks on Albania by Khrushchev and other top Communists, as well as the Albanian replies.

FRIENDSHIP ASSURED

There was no comment on the Soviet attacks on Albania for following a "Stalinist" line.

The New China news agency reported that the head of a Chinese women's delegation now in Albania has assured it of China's friendship "under all conditions."

Yugoslav Honored

ATOKNOVA (Reuters)—Yugoslav novelist Ivo Andric was awarded the $48,380 Nobel prize for literature Thursday "for the epic force with which he has depicted scenes from the history of his country."

BCE Stockholders Paid Too Much?

VANCOUVER (CP)—CCF leader Robert Strachan said Thursday he believes there should be arbitration of the B.C. Electric Co. takeover price because possibly the shareholders were paid too much in compensation.

He made the suggestion at the final CCF provincial convention here when asked what the party's position was in connection with the arbitration of the price paid B.C. Electric shareholders when the Social Credit government took over the utility Aug. 1.

Mr. Strachan said the CCF policy was that the company should have been taken over under terms of the Power Act, which provides for arbitration of the compensation paid. The Social Credit government had passed special legislation.

"An independent tribunal might come up with the opinion that the B.C. Electric shareholders were getting too much," Mr. Strachan said. He added that while he thought small shareholders might not be getting too much, he is "convinced that major shareholders are getting much more out of it than they put into it."

PAID $110,000,000

The government paid the parent B.C. Power Corporation $110,000,000 for B.C. Electric under terms of the takeover legislation. B.C. Power has sought permission from the government to take the matter to court, claiming $225,000,000 as a fair price.

'Leave Sacred Party' Tories Ask Kiernan

CHILLIWACK (CP)—The Chilliwack Progressive Conservative Association is circulating a petition urging B.C. Mines Minister Kiernan to abandon the Social Credit party in protest over the B.C. Electric Co. takeover. The group will urge other Conservative associations to make similar appeals to Sacred MLAs with the exception of Premier Bennett.

New Democrats Protest

OTTAWA (UPI)—The New Democratic party has addressed an "urgent protest" to the Soviet Embassy against the proposed Russian explosion of a super nuclear bomb.

In a letter to Soviet Ambasador Amassap Aroutunian, the party's federal president Michael Oliver said Canada faced "with horror, the prospect of children born maimed as a consequence."

Oliver said that if the Soviet government hoped "by testing a weapon of such destructive

Whaling to Resume

VANCOUVER (CP)—An agreement with a Japanese fishing company will enable British Columbia's whaling fleet to resume operations next year for the first time since 1950.

The industry will be reactivated because the partnership between Japan and Canada will abandon the production of whale oil and meal in favor of marketing whale meat for human consumption.

The agreement was negotiated by B.C. Packers Ltd. and Taiyo Gyogyo of Japan, the world's largest fishing company.

Kenneth Fraser, B.C. Packers' vice-president, said yesterday the new partnership will be called Western Canada Whaling Company Ltd. which will market whale meat for human consumption probably in Asia and sell by-products for mink and pet food in North America.

He said the industry will add $1,500,000 to the B.C. economy and provide 170 jobs, about 70 on six whaling ships and 100 at processing plants.

Habs Settle Old Score; Bruins Take First Win

Mob Scene in Boston Fracas

Melee of milling players and referees surround Detroit Red Wings' Vic Stasiuk and Boston Bruins' Don Head, grappling on Boston Garden ice during first-period NHL action last night. Boston players

identified are Pat Stapleton (11) and Charlie Burns (10). Gordie Howe (9) and Alex Delvecchio (10) of Red Wings are also seen. Bruins won, 4-0. (AP Photofax.)

Rookie goalie Don Head was spectacular in a shut-out and wild fight as Boston Bruins scored their first National Hockey League victory of the season but Montreal Canadiens came up with the more significant effort of last night's action.

Obviously fired up, the still-unbeaten defending champions went out to prove that last spring's unexpected loss minutes for five goals which made it a 7-1 rout. Hawks got started badly when Dollard St. Laurent put the puck in his own net in the first period. Canadiens boosted their lead to 2-0 with a power-play in the second period, then just pulled away in the third period almost as they wished.

Bernie Geoffrion had a goal and two assists and Bill Hicke and Don Marshall each had a goal and one assist.

SOLID SHOW

At Boston, Head, who was back in the nets only because Ed Chadwick had been injured, staked a solid claim to the regular job, which was his at the start of the season, with a sensational performance.

The big fellow made 19 stops without a miss in the first period out of a total of 41 for the game, and got the Bruins hopped up with his brawl with Vic Stasiuk, veteran Detroit forward.

KNOCKED HIM FLAT

It started midway through the period when Head thought Stasiuk had encroached on his territory and knocked the big forward flat.

Stasiuk turned to skate away, then started back as the realization of what happened sank in. He found a willing foe, and after a stick battle, the two went at it with bare knuckles.

Bruins, scored on 47 times in their first eight games, opened up with Head unbeatable and found a new scoring punch as they put their three top forwards—Don McKenney, John Bucyk and Doug Mohns—early in the second period. Doug Mohns made it 2-0 less than four minutes later and Charlie Burns counted on a power play late in the third period. Mohns completed the scoring in the third period. Bucyk had a goal and two assists, Mohns a goal and an assist and McKenney three assists.

Armstrong Traded By Boston Bruins

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Bruins worked a trade last night with the Montreal Canadiens which sent veteran defenseman Bob Armstrong to Montreal for Hull-Ottawa right winger Wayne Connelly.

The Bruins also lent defenseman Dallas Smith for the current season to the Canadiens and included an undisclosed amount of cash as part of the transaction.

The 30-year-old Armstrong, a member of the Bruins for more than nine seasons, was assigned immediately to Montreal's Hull-Ottawa team in the Eastern Pro League as a player-coach. Smith was assigned to the same team as a player.

Connelly, 21, who is presently with Hull-Ottawa, played for Peterborough, Ont., in 1959-60 and at the end of that season joined the Montreal Royals for the Eastern Pro League playoffs. He had six goals and four assists in eight playoff games.

Last season, his first as a professional, Connelly, generally acclaimed as a brilliant young prospect, scored 26 goals and had 21 assists in 64 games with the Royals. The Bruins said Connelly would join the team at a Saturday practice session and be ready for his National Hockey League debut Sunday night.

Inter-High Gala At Crystal Garden

They're not quite as many as had been expected but, still, no less than 223 youngsters will be taking part in the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's annual inter-high school swimming championships at the Crystal Garden on Saturday.

Thirty-five events, including four diving events, are listed for the four classifications—senior boys and girls and junior boys and girls.

Oak Bay high schools, which have been monopolizing titles for the past few years will be defending both the senior aggregate (Sir Edward Beatty) and junior aggregate (D. & D.) trophies as well as the Canadian Legion, Britannia Branch, Trophy for the junior boys' freestyle relay.

Mount Newton, now Royal Oak, will defend the Pendry Cup, which goes to the junior girls' freestyle relay champions.

Oak Bay Senior High School tops the entries with 36 swimmers and Oak Bay Junior High School has 20. Other entries: Royal Oak, 18; Esquimalt, 24; Landsdowne, 24; Esquimalt Junior High, 21; Elizabeth Fisher, 20; Belmont, 18; Norfolk House, 20; Victoria, 15; St. Ann's Academy, 9; Mt. Douglas, 2, and Mount View, 2.

Heats in the swimming events will take place at 10 a.m., the diving events at 2 p.m., and the swimming finals at 4 p.m.

Son of Ribot Best in Europe Although Not in Sire's Class

LONDON (AP)—It sounds sweeping, but few British experts would dissent from the view that Ribot was the greatest horse seen in Europe since the Second World War.

Some would go farther and say that the champion from Italy's Dornello stud could give chunks of weight and a beating to any horse in the world.

Ribot retired a few years ago after 16 straight victories, including top races in France, Italy and Britain. In 1955 and 1956, he carried home in successive runnings of the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, the annual fall feature in Paris that is becoming recognized as the European championship for thoroughbreds.

Now, appropriately, a challenge to the old man's record is coming from Molveno, one of his first crop of foals. Molveno went to Paris early in October and again in approximately a month's time. He won the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, worth £50,000. He finished two lengths ahead of the outstanding French horse, Right Royal, with mud-lodging Misti third and Sir Winston Churchill's gallant British hope, High Hat, a few whiskers away in fourth place.

IMPRESSIVE WIN

Since Right Royal V recently recorded a clean-cut victory over St. Paddy, 1960 winner of the Epsom Derby and still rated Britain's dark horse, the Paris triumph gave Molveno a clear right to the 1961 European championship.

After Molveno's like-father, like-son success in the Paris run Oct. 8 over a distance of about 1 1/2 miles, it was natural for critics to compare the three-year-old bay colt, by Ribot out of Maggolina, with his famous sire who in his time won races from five furlongs to 2 1/2 miles, and made the opposition look sick in the process.

An emphatic answer came

England Wins First Match

LAHORE, Pakistan (Reuters)—England, sparked by a score of 66 not out by captain Tex Dexter, defeated Pakistan by five wickets Thursday in the first match of a three-match cricket test series.

Final scores were Pakistan 287 for nine declared and 289; England 380 and 218 for five. Set to make 208 in 250 minutes to win, England suffered early setbacks, but kept pace with the clock. Two wickets went for 17 runs and half the side was out for 108 with England needing 100 runs in 120 minutes.

But Dexter, playing his best innings of the tour, maintained the scoring rate and with Bob Barber playing a valuable part as an unbroken stand of 100, England won with 35 minutes to spare.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Victoria is still undecided about a centennial project but of all the suggestions made, as far as is known here none has hit upon the ever-growing need of more and better playing fields. Alex MacLeod Baird puts it well in a letter:

"To date in all the Centennial deliberations," he writes, "not one word has been spoken on anything being done as regards to improving sporting grounds to replace our dated facilities. The population of young people has trebled itself within the last 15 to 20 years and we still have the same facilities we had then. If it weren't for the men and women who give their time in the evenings and days off, sports in Victoria would be in a bad way. To these people we owe a very great debt of gratitude.

"In this day and age young people need a healthy body, which makes a healthy mind. All educational authorities advocate sports. There are not the chores to do today after school as when we were boys. If a teen-ager gets in trouble it always brings up the cry 'these teen-agers.' What are we doing to prevent trouble? Let's bend the willow when it is young.

"That the federal government is alive to this situation is seen in the fact that it has voted a $5,000,000 grant to help (amateur) sport. It is worth mentioning that all parties agreed when the bill came up. I quote Opposition leader Pearson's remarks: 'Certain Socialists, particularly the Communists, use international sport for political purposes. It is rather a matter of some consequence that we in Canada do what we can to develop and increase the prestige we once had in international competition.'"

"It is therefore certain that these cities who are alive to the situation will benefit the most."

Mr. Baird has made a good point. What could be better as a centennial project than to do something for those who will be our adults in future years? The Victoria district is not only sadly lacking in facilities for the youngsters but it is just as lacking, it seems, in a desire to do something about it. A new city hall is needed and so is an auditorium but there are many who feel that more and better playing fields would bring us a greater return over the years.

Random Harvest

Fourteen of 18 National Hockey League writers who participated in a poll picked Chicago Black Hawks to finish on top, three plumped for Montreal Canadiens and one for Toronto Maple Leafs. It seems that I'm going to have plenty of company . . . this choice for the award which goes to the outstanding football player in Canada would be Earl Lunsford, the powerhouse fullback with Calgary Stampeders . . . Los Angeles Blades, who seemed to have more defencemen than forwards before the Western Hockey League season started, couldn't have gained in the trade which brought them veteran Earl Chevrolet for Jim May—unless Red-eye has gone back and Chevrolet has settled down to playing hockey . . . Edmonton Flyers may have in Lou Lamoie—Roger Deloray and Chuck Holmes the best forward line in the WHL this season but Art Jones, the amazing Gordie Fashway and plugging Arnie Schmalz are certainly popping the puck in the nets often for Portland Buckaroos. And Lunde may be going well enough to catch the eye of Detroit Red Wings . . . latest hockey rumor is that there has been an unexpected delay in getting the ice plan ready in San Francisco's Cow Palace, an item which has Jack Morgan, manager of Memorial Arena, hopeful that the Seals might yet play a few league games here . . . Edmontonians are still going for that wrestling "feud" between Gene Kiniski and Whipper Watson in a big way. It's had a longer run than "My Fair Lady" . . . between June and the start of the world series, outfielders Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris and manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees received no less than 50,630 letters . . . if you are a baseball fan, or even one who likes something different in his reading, don't pass up "The Long Season," written by Jim Brunson, relief pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds. It's interesting, humorous and well-written . . . Bud Pole, manager-coach of the Edmonton Flyers, has put up a dressing room sign which reads "When everything else has failed try doing what the boss suggested."

Show 'Em Coach!

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Line coach Earl (Rock) Beyer was fired of watching his Pennsylvania Military College football team fall to score from the one-yard line. So he lined the team up the other day and had the offense practice getting over the end line. At one point he stepped into the lineup to show how it should be done. Next day, Beyer, a former West Chester State back, was in Chester Hospital with a broken right ankle.

Longest Game 'Half Over'

By JACK PATRICK (Coach of Victoria Drakes)

We didn't make out too well in the first half of the longest football game we will be playing this season. The second half goes this Saturday at Macdonald Park, and we hope there is enough time in that 60 minutes to make up for our dismal showing against the Royals at New Westminster last Saturday.

We go into this half of the B.C. intermediate Canadian football final 28 points down but with the attitude that everything is not yet lost. Most of our players know from experience that the outcome of a football game is very unpredictable, no matter whether it is amateur or professional. We know we have to score a lot of points to get back into the running, and we have to come up with a better defence to take away their scoring punch. We have been working on some defensive changes which should stop the Royals' big guns.

We will need some breaks if we are to get back into the game early. We plan to make our own breaks and will be ready to capitalize on any opportunity we are presented with.

The mental attitude of our players will play a big part in this game, and I feel we will be "up" for it. We should have all our personnel ready to go—Ken Higgs, Charlie Bishop and Bob Coultas, who all sat out last Saturday's half. Our best hope is that we have everything to gain and nothing to lose. We are lucky that the final wasn't the usual sudden-death game. Now we have a second chance, and we'll be out to play our best game of the season.

Calgary Fines, Sells Renegade Linebacker

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampede of the Western Football Conference Thursday fined a $2,755 fine on Jackie Simpson and sold the renegade linebacker to Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Simpson jumped the club last weekend and turned up in Denver. His action was discovered when Stampede's decided to use him in a game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night, but failed to reach him Sunday morning by telephone from Regina. Stampede general manager Jim Finks immediately suspended the player.

Finks said Thursday Simpson was subsequently reinstated, waived out of the Canadian Football League by the other eight clubs, and sold to Denver.

Finks described the $2,755 fine as "stiff" but he added "we'll get it." Simpson came to Calgary earlier this year in a deal with Second doubleheader, seen the PPCLI Army team playing Victoria University in the curtain-raiser at 8 p.m. Esquimalt Chiefs play Navy in the second game.

Finks said crowds at the 20,000-seat McMahon Stadium have been down about 1,500 per game from last year. Attendance so far this year has been 86,521 and there still is one game left.

The figures throw a damper on the expressed intention of club president George McMahon to bid for the 1964 Grey Cup game to be played in Calgary.

McMahon said the bid hinges on adding several thousand seats to McMahon Stadium, and that must be accomplished with profits from club operations.

Push-Button Doctors Soon?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Doctors soon may use electronic computers to diagnose patients' illnesses, a research official said yesterday.

He said the machines ultimately may do a quicker and far more accurate job of finding out what's wrong with a patient than a physician.

Robert Ledley, president of the National Biomedical Research Foundation, Silver Springs, Md., said techniques for diagnosing by machine already were being developed.

He said these techniques called for the machines to take over the doctor's job in three areas: analysis of the patient's symptoms, analysis of alternative diagnoses and finally, consideration of the value of various treatments.

Ledley spoke at the concluding session of the 1961 computer applications symposium.

"Shaving" can it make a whisky taste better?

"Sure it can," says Harry Hallett, our cooper.

"See this piece of oak I'm shaving? That's what we call a stave, and staves fit together to make casks for the whisky to mature in. They have to fit exactly so the whisky can 'breathe' just right. If they don't, the cask is too tight and this is bad for the whisky. But my casks fit, and the whisky is properly matured."

Firebug Gallops Under New Moon

Nude Sparks Terror

MALTON, Ont. (CP)—Farmers in the Tillamook area 10 miles north of here are guarding their barns these nights and watching for a tall man who runs naked through the fields spreading fire by the glow light of the new moon. Police blame him for destruction of three barns, the deaths of 20 head of cattle and the burning of a corn stack.

Two families have fled the district since the raids began.

Const. Martin Maze of Gore Township says he and the provincial police know the man—that he is 6-feet-3 and weighs 240 pounds—but they haven't been able to prove their suspicions.

"It might sound crazy," Const. Maze said, "but these offences coincide with a new moon. He twists iron stands of mail boxes as though they were balling wire and tears down farmers' fences."

One family left for Vancouver after their home was broken into several times. The only thing stolen was clothing from their 16-year-old daughter.

Garfield Montgomery sold his farm and moved to Erin, when his barn was burned. He said he received anonymous letters stating it would be burned again if rebuilt.

"I wanted to get out of the area and away from all the trouble," he said.

Al Hamilton, who bought Mr. Montgomery's farm and converted it into a country club, says he won't move.

"Everybody around here is scared stiff, but nobody will run me out, madman or not. I have too much money invested."

Const. Maze said several persons have seen the man running naked and are sure they know who he is. None feels certain enough to swear, however.

New Radar Can Spot Golf Ball

OTTAWA (CP)—A radar set so quick and accurate that it can track the flight of a golf ball has been put into production for the Canadian Army. It was announced yesterday.

Army headquarters said 10 production models, to be manufactured by Raytheon (Canada) Ltd., Waterloo, Ont., will be ready for delivery to the military late in 1962 and early 1963.

Arctic Oil Search With New Method

OTTAWA (CP)—A distinguished Canadian scientist suggested a novel method yesterday which might result in a saving of millions of dollars in the search for oil in the Canadian Arctic.

Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, director of earth sciences at the University of Toronto, made his proposal at a one-day symposium here to draw up plans for Canada's role in the international Upper Mantle project.

from Jan. 1, 1962, to Dec. 31, 1964, will be a co-operative effort by the world's earth scientists to study the mantle of the earth.

Dr. Wilson, dean of Canada's geophysicists, said British and Australian scientists have found that traces of freshly formed petroleum occur only in tropical regions. This suggested that the world's continents were moving slowly and that perhaps all oil fields were in equatorial regions.

An investigation into a method to measure the magnetization of rocks suggested that all the fields might have been in the tropics when the rocks were formed.

Dr. Wilson said millions of dollars will likely be spent in drilling for oil in Canada's Arctic islands. If the British and Australian scientists were right, a major expenditure could be avoided by sending a geophysicist to collect rocks.

Bawdy House Conviction

Defendant in Vice Trial My Wife, Says Counsel

Trial of a former Victoria woman on a charge of keeping a common bawdy house on Linden Avenue came to a startling climax in city police court yesterday when the defence counsel called the woman his wife.

Dawn Adams, who had pleaded innocent to the two-year-old charge, was found guilty by Acting Magistrate J. A. Byers, and was remanded to Nov. 2 for probation report and sentence.

She pleaded guilty to a second charge of jumping bail in Oct. 7, 1959, when trial was originally scheduled, and was similarly remanded for a week.

When defence counsel E. C. Rogers of Vancouver opened his case, he called Dawn Adams to the stand, where she gave the name "Dawn Rogers."

Later, after her conviction, Mr. Rogers told the court that his client had left Victoria two years ago "due to certain circumstances," that she had gone to England and visited her parents for three or four months.

Then she returned to Vancouver, he said, "and was gainfully employed until four months ago when she married myself."

Prosecution evidence concluded yesterday morning with testimony of real estate salesman George Randall, 737 Pandora.

In the afternoon Mr. Rogers made a lengthy motion for dismissal of the charge, alleging contradictions in the evidence of the five police officers who testified Wednesday.

Mr. Byers dismissed the motion, and Mr. Rogers called the accused to the stand as the only defence witness.

WELSHMAN
She admitted receiving telephone calls from Const. Edward James, but said he portrayed himself as a Welshman in town who had been given her name by a Seattle friend, and who thought he'd like to meet an English girl.

In a later call, she said, he arranged to bring friends over "for a drinking party."

She said she was unburned in explaining her change of clothing, described by the officers as to "the top half of babydoll pajamas."

PAY DENIED
"Do you remember Const. James' evidence that he gave you $25?" asked Mr. Rogers. "He absolutely did not!"

Summing up, Mr. Byers outlined the evidence, then said: "The issue is really one of credibility. I can see no reason for rejecting the evidence of the officers."

"I find her guilty as charged and she is convicted accordingly."

council is morally obligated to Westcoast Construction."

Ald. McLean: "I don't see how we are morally obligated to the big people more than we are to all the little ones who don't have the eloquent pleas on their behalf."

STAND UP
Ald. Edgell: "If this city is to go ahead... all we can do is go up. Council must stand up and be counted. The permit has been issued in good faith."

Ald. Curtis: "I don't understand how this permit came to be issued (for construction of the high-rise). We are just changing this to get out, to rectify a mistake that was made."

TOWN PLANNER
Leading objectors were Alfred Staples, 636 Toronto Street, a town planner employed by the provincial government; Muriel Martinson, also a town planner employed by the provincial government; Peter Cotton, an architect employed by the provincial government; Emil Dery, 631 Avalon, owner of a one-storey apartment to the north of the site proposed for the high-rise, and G. Andrew Dery, 631 Avalon, an engineer employed by the provincial government.

Comments by aldermen included:

Mayor Scurrell: "What disturbs me is taking rights away from other people to put up a high-rise."

Ald. Griffin: "We let a man come in here and spend a lot of money and then say 'Sorry, Charlie, we made a little mistake.'"

Ald. Dowell: "I think this

Campbell Urges Ottawa To Let B.C. Indians Drink

Make Drunkenness Crime To Halt Discrimination

COURTENAY—The federal government could reduce the degree of discrimination against B.C. Indians as far as liquor is concerned without the trouble of impractical plebiscites, Sacred MLA Dan Campbell said yesterday.

Mr. Campbell, an advocate making the Indian the white man's equal under liquor laws, said there should be no discrimination against the Indian and he should be subject to the same liquor laws as other Canadians.

NAME AS WHITE

"The national government should remove from the statutes the law which makes a crime of being drunk off a reservation. If an Indian is drunk then he should be charged with being drunk in a public place or being drunk and disorderly, as the white man is," Mr. Campbell said.

Recently the B.C. government showed interest in giving Indians the same liquor rights as the white man but Ottawa prefers to grant the right to possess liquor and drink on reservations only when a plebiscite indicates such is the wish in individual bands.

This, Mr. Campbell feels, is impractical in that it would be difficult for liquor outlet operators to know they were serving a reserve Indian.

Indians living off reserves in B.C. may drink and buy liquor and are subject only to the government liquor act. Reserve Indians can, under the B.C. law, buy liquor, but as soon as they step onto the street with their purchase they are in possession of liquor off a reserve and are committing a crime under the Indian Act.

A reserve Indian may drink at the home of an Indian friend living off the reserve and commit no crime. But he commits a crime under the Indian Act if he invites the friend to drink at a house on the reserve.

"If Ottawa won't permit B.C. to give the Indian equality with the white man in liquor, the least that could be done is to put an end to the discrimination in part by making drunkenness the crime and not the fact that the culprit is a reservation Indian," Mr. Campbell said.

Bennett Declares:

B.C. Ready to Act On Columbia Plan If Ottawa Permits

(By Colonist Staff Reporter)

VANCOUVER—B.C. Power Commission will be ready to start construction of the $458,000,000 Columbia River hydro project early next year if Ottawa allows export of power, Premier Bennett announced last night.

He said Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of the BCPC, had informed him the commission was ready "to provide jobs" in the Kootenays by January, February or April. "We are ready to act," he said.

The premier also said he would willingly sell the Columbia downstream benefits to the federal government if it is serious in its desire to form a national power grid.

FIRST OPPORTUNITY

"I say to Mr. Diefenbaker... we will give him the first opportunity to buy those downstream benefits from Bonneville at the same price—five mills—if he will put it on a national grid," the premier told delegates attending the Social Credit Women's Auxiliary banquet.

BCE Bus Turnover 'Rubbish'

VANCOUVER (Staff) — The government will not give the B.C. Electric buses back to the cities to run, Premier Bennett said last night.

"That's rubbish," he told delegates attending the Social Credit banquet last night.

B.C. 'Not Dictating' Downstream Rate

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said last night that British Columbia has "never tried to dictate to the United States" in his Social Credit government's proposals for sale of Columbia River downstream power at five mills per kilowatt hour.

"They have the right to their own choice, just like anyone else," he said in comment on a statement by a Pacific Northwest power authority that the U.S. northwest states were not interested in B.C.'s share of Columbia River power at a five-mill rate.

Mr. Bennett, here to attend a Social Credit convention, said if Canada sold her downstream benefits to the U.S. at a five-mill rate it would mean that the U.S. would get half the power at one mill per kilowatt hour and the other half at five mills. "This would average out to three mills to them," the premier said. "And in addition they would get $610,000,000 worth of flood control at a cost of some $150,000,000—saving $460,000,000."

Shantz Feels Needle

VANCOUVER (Staff) — Political observers last night speculated that Mr. Speaker Hugh Shantz of Vernon may soon be out of a job.

Premier Bennett made frequent thinly-veiled jibes at Mr. Shantz during the Sacred banquet last night for speaking out against the government takeover of the B.C. Electric.

AMERICO CRUZ

Understand Us Plea from Cuba

By TED FULFORD

The story of Cuba's rise from the inferno of revolution, her continuing clash with the United States and her gradual swing to political left field was told in Victoria yesterday by a man who knows the tale very well indeed.

In an address to more than 500 university students, in interviews with the press and, last night, at a meeting of the Current Affairs Council of Greater Victoria, the Cuban ambassador to Canada, Dr. Americo Cruz, hammered his message home.

A compelling speaker with a flair for dramatic imagery and a suaveness which belied his admittedly revolutionary views, Dr. Cruz made his strongest appeal to his student listeners.

PLEA FOR

It was a frank plea for understanding by the nation's young people of the drives behind Cuba's revolutionary movement.

When Castro and his followers came down from the hills to wrest control from the Batista government, he said, Cuba's educational system was bankrupt, some 35 per cent of the population was illiterate and—in all the tiny country's history to that time—only 5,000 schools had been built.

In 1960 alone, some 10,000 new schools were built. "The American government said this couldn't be done, but we went ahead and did it anyway." The following year, another 5,000 schools were built and the total goal of 35,000 schools is expected to be reached in two or three years.

Precinct Bylaw Passed

City council yesterday gave final approval to a special bylaw which creates a Cathedral Hill precinct in Victoria.

Action was taken despite a plea by Joseph McKenna, who asked council to defer action on the precinct until he had had time to thoroughly study provisions of the bylaw.

"The Sisters of St. Ann have an institution on Burdett Avenue—Mount St. Mary Hospital—and there is a possibility of them acquiring other land for expansion," he said.

Mr. McKenna spoke during a public hearing which preceded the council meeting. Later aldermen voted unanimously to adopt the bylaw.

The precinct plan restricts the use of land within the precinct to certain definite uses.

Silver Threads Fights Loneliness

They Shoot a Bogey

By TED PULFORD
How large does the spectre of loneliness loom in the eyes of a still-active senior citizen whose days and nights are a blank, grey nothing relieved only by food and sleep?

For Victoria's Silver Threads Service, this problem of the aged and alone looms larger than anything else.

To say that they have demolished the spectre would be untrue. What they have done for their 500 members in the area is to whittle the bogey down to a manageable size so that the individuals can handle it themselves.

FOUR-LANE PATH
The solution, says Glen Hamilton, executive director of the United Appeal agency, seems to lie somewhere along a four-lane path.

First, of course, are the packed social schedules which will keep an active Silver Threads member busy several days a week. There are cards and dances and trips and movies and plain, old-fashioned gossip.

Next came the counselling services which help worried elders with the immediate problems of living, such as finding homes, moving and even seeking work.

TAILOR PLANS
Co-ordination with other groups serving the aged is another vital service, Mr. Hamilton says. Knowing what others are doing allows Silver Threads to tailor its plans to fit.

All three of these endeavors rely heavily upon the fourth—the volunteer services.

The work of putting on teas and dinners, planning parties, transportation, trips out of the city, meetings and games falls squarely upon the shoulders of these dedicated people.

VOLUNTEERS
It is the volunteers, says Mr. Hamilton, who will make possible an entire year's operation of Silver Threads with only $12,180 from United Appeal coffers.

The conquest of loneliness, Mr. Hamilton says, cannot be attributed to anything as simple as a program. The principle must be to seek ways of lifting old people's declining years with adventure, challenge, fun and a sense of belonging to the community.

"When we do that," he says, "the loneliness takes care of itself."

Builders' Sash and Door Loses Storage Building

A 60-mile-an-hour gust of wind last night accomplished at a stroke what Victoria's mystery arsonist has been determined to do since last summer.

Extension Plan

Street Sparks Quarrel

A new route is under consideration for the proposed extension of Blanshard Street to the Patricia Bay Highway.

This was disclosed at city council meeting yesterday during a quarrel over the proposed extension between Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. Millard Mooney.

The new route, outlined by Ald. Edgelow, would avoid cutting through the S. J. Wilks schoolground which is at the north end of Blanshard Street, where it joins Hillside Avenue.

Temper flared briefly during discussion of the proposed winter works program which included an item of $3,000 to pay for a detailed survey for the Blanshard Street extension.

Ald. Mooney contended council should have a detailed report on the situation before voting any money and Ald. Austin Curtis supported him.

Ald. Edgelow contended the survey was needed before a report could be submitted to council.

Mr. Mooney withdrew his objection when council decided to ask for a detailed report on the situation before the money is spent.

Teachers Make Offer

Greater Victoria school board officials last night asked for "more time" to study new wage proposals submitted recently by the teachers' bargaining committee in current contract negotiations.

Negotiations will continue at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Kenneth Leeming, finance chairman and head of the board's bargaining team, told the teachers' spokesmen "we have studied your proposal and still feel it's too high."

He was referring to a revised version which called for an increase of roughly three per cent which would add $155,000 to the school board's teacher salary costs.

The teachers earlier asked for an average increase of 2.5 per cent which would have cost the board $188,000.

"Don't go away with the feeling we have closed the door because we haven't," he added.

If agreement is not reached Tuesday each side will have to appoint a conciliator.

Two-Week Extension For Appeal

With this year's United Appeal campaign deadline set for Oct. 31—and only about two-thirds of the money collected so far—a two-week extension of the drive is being planned by campaign officials.

Campaign chairman Justin Harbord said yesterday, "We're behind, but we're certainly not going to stop now—the United Appeal needs that money."

Total collected so far has nudged past the $200,000 mark and, with money flowing in from the most active residential campaign ever, officials are hopeful the books can be closed by mid-November.

The howling blast uprooted a Builders' Sash and Door lumber shed and slammed it against a house at 482 Cecelia Avenue, causing an estimated $8,000 damage.

The family of S. E. Olson scurried out of their home fearing the roof of the building would give way.

FOUR ATTEMPTS
During recent months four arson attempts on the shed have kept the Olsons on edge.

"The crash broke the eldest girl up pretty badly," Mr. Olson said after it was all over.

His wife, Nina, washing dishes in the kitchen with her daughters, Deborah, 8, and Beverly, 1, scooped up the youngsters and started running when she heard a roar that grew "louder and louder."

KEPT AN EYE
She said she kept an eye on the ceiling while they fled, expecting it to come crashing down around them.

Mr. Olson, in the living room with a son Philip, 5, tried to stop her until he was sure it was safe to go outside.

"But I just barged through anyway," said the excited woman.

HOME COVERED
Wreckage of the shed half covered the Olson home, puncturing the roof and damaging two cars parked in the driveway.

A newly-built garage in the backyard was shoved out of line. Mr. Olson estimated damage to his property at $3,000.

Fearing the collapse might be another attempt at foul play, Police Chief John Blackstock called in town planner Roderick Clark to assist in on-the-spot investigation, but nothing was found amiss.

ANOTHER LOOK
Mr. Clark said the trouble appeared to have started at the Cecelia Street end of the shed. He said there was evidence the wind caused a ripple in the wall which gained enough momentum to snap upright at the other end of the structure. He said he planned to take another look in daylight.

Meanwhile a crew from Builders' Sash and Door scurried about trying to find tarpaulins to cover an estimated $15,000 in kiln-dried lumber exposed by the mishap.

NOT COMPLETED
Company president Jack Lord said the shed cost about $5,000 to construct and that it was not completed.

"Whoever was setting those fires obviously doesn't want us here," Mr. Lord said. "I'll bet he's laughing his head off right now."

He said a crew would start to remove the debris first thing in the morning.

Cracks at interior wall corners of the Olson home were the sole evidence of the extra weight being borne by the dwelling.

HILDA PEACOCK

City jail inmates will be denied the "privilege" of crossing an alley to shave before a mirror in Naval Shore Patrol headquarters, as result of yesterday's unsuccessful break for freedom by a prisoner.

Donald Raymond Gray, no fixed address, held in jail for Soanich and Oak Bay police on charges of breaking, entering and theft, had been taken across the alley yesterday at 11 a.m. for a shave by Const. Albert Harwood.

When he was finished, Gray started out the door, suddenly slammed it in Const. Harwood's face, and sprinted down the alley to Flaggard with Const. Harwood in hot pursuit. Cpl. Jack Rogers of Colwood RCMP gave chase in a car.

DASHED UP FLAGGARD
Gray dashed up Flaggard to Douglas, then south a block to Cormorant, where he slanted across the street and ran through a walk behind city hall — Const. Harwood close behind him.

Cpl. Rogers drove around city hall to Pandora. Gray was cut off and nabbed by Const. Harwood.

No shots were fired in the eye-catching chase. Const. Harwood, as jailer, was not wearing his revolver, according to regulations.

"This ends any shaving in the Shore Patrol office," Chief John Blackstock said yesterday.

"Prisoners have been allowed to shave there, under escort, as a sort of privilege and to speed things up for court appearances."

"From now on they'll use the sink inside the jail."

There is no mirror in the jail.

Aldermen Retreat On Religion Query

City aldermen quietly backed down yesterday on their stand that they have a right to know the place of origin and religion of persons applying for employment at city hall.

At the same time they ignored a suggestion by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady that they could challenge a ruling by the provincial labor relations board on the issue.

The council's action was a victory for Ald. Michael Griffin, who spearheaded the drive to have the two questions removed from city hall application forms, as well as his supporters, Ald. W. A. Toome and Mayor Percy Scarrath.

The three were outvoted recently when Ald. Griffin attempted to have the questions removed.

A protest against the city's use of the questions was made to the labor relations board and the board ordered the city to remove the questions.

Council rescinded its previous motion and instructed city manager C. C. Wyatt to have the offending questions removed from the forms.

"Council passed a resolution that is directly contrary to the (labor relations) act. You have no alternative. You will have to rescind the motion," Mayor Scarrath said.

School Penny Drive Nets $56 for UN

A total of $56.28 has been collected by students of Mount View High School for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Representing an average of 10 cents from every student in the school, the money was collected through a "penny drive."

The UN fund goes toward child health, nutrition and welfare programs in 162 countries.

Ratepayers Urged

Vote on Referendum To Build Schools

Greater Victoria school board chairman W. C. Gelling last night urged ratepayers throughout School District 61 to vote Saturday on the $3,755,000 schools referendum.

He said the school district was set up by the provincial government in 1947 to give all children in Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Saanich and View

Royal equal opportunity to obtain a good education.

"This has made possible more economical development of schools irrespective of municipal boundaries. It also means, however, that in order to gain these benefits all the taxpayers of the district must share the cost of any improvements that are made, no matter where these occur in the district," said Mr. Gelling.

Victoria residents will have a chance to see two unusual U.S. Navy groups here next weekend, the Blue Angels precision flight team and an 18,000-ton helicopter aircraft carrier.

'GOODWILL GESTURE'
The Blue Angels, taking part in an American naval air fair at Whidbey Island, will give a four or five-minute display over Juan de Fuca Strait as a "goodwill gesture" on the afternoon of Nov. 3. They can be best viewed from Dallas Road near Beacon Hill Park, OPEN TO PUBLIC.

The U.S. Marine Corps amphibious assault ship USS Iwo Jima will arrive at HMC Dockyard Nov. 4. It will be open to the public from 12:30 to 5 p.m. Nov. 5.

AIR-CONDITIONED
This unusual ship which looks more like an aircraft carrier than a troopship has a complement of 61 officers and 505 men. It is designed to carry nearly 2,000 marines in battle areas where helicopters airlift the marines behind enemy emplacements.

In wartime, the helicopter carrier would travel as part of an amphibious assault force.

Here's Hitch in Hiking Even Stoppers No Help

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

that "only half of the cost of new school accommodation will be paid by ratepayers of Greater Victoria."

Basils of this amazing statement is that the provincial government pays half and local taxpayers pay half.

But where does the school board think the government get its money from?

Incidentally, this doesn't mean we're against the bylaw, but one would think the school board could come up with much better reasons why ratepayers should vote for the new classrooms instead of using such phony gimmicks.

REDUCED TO CLEAR: A reader writes to say that it shouldn't be puzzling to Americans how a province has the power to go against the wishes of the Canadian government.

Seems that ever a period of many years the city of Chicago defied states and the U.S. government by taking water out of the St. Lawrence watershed, thus lowering water heights at canals and harbors.

Duncan Kiwanis Club president Lee Sleser had a red face the other day when he was introduced at an all-service club meeting as president of the rival Lions Club ... A Canadian reporter who attended the Spokane meeting of the Inland Empire Waterways Association was somewhat flustered when a high official tapped him on the forehead and said in a loud voice: "Say, boy, you've sure got a lot of I.Q. up there."

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: The Bayshore Inn in Vancouver is so swish you can get breakfast sent to your room any hour of the 24.

FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY FREE: In New Zealand hotels it is the custom to put one's shoes outside the hotel room door at night and the next morning they are there—fully shined.

A New Zealander we know, who is now visiting Vancouver, reports he followed this quaint habit the other day at the hotel where he was staying.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column ever since it started, which must be at least five years now. You have a terrific sense of humor and I think it's a shame that you waste your time and talent on squirrely teen-agers and nutty housewives who are sunk anyway.

With my personality and your brains the two of us could be a winning combination. I have some tremendous ideas which would put both of us right in the big time. Are you interested? — MR. SUCCESS.

Dear Mr. Success: I don't think you need me. Judging by your signature you've already got it made. If you don't mind I'll just stumble along alone and do as good a job as I can without you.

Dear Ann Landers: Clyde and I have a profitable drapery business which we've worked hard to build up. His brother usually does the final delivery and hangs the draperies.

Yesterday Clyde said he wanted to hang the draperies "personally" for some lady who is very social because it would be good for business.

He was gone four hours and I began to worry. He finally showed up at home — half-clothed. I asked him where he had been and he said they got to visiting over a few highballs and he forgot what time it was. Also he said his brother had better go hang the draperies tomorrow as he never got around to it.

If Clyde had been picked up in the truck for drunken driving it could have ruined us. He claims that personal attention is good for business, and that I am old-fashioned. How about this? — CLYDE'S WIFE.

Dear wife: Personal attention is good for business but when it gets too personal it can be bad for business, and also bad for the business man. Tell Clyde to let his brother do all the drapery-hanging from now on and to stay out of the truck. He has no right to risk years of hard work by mixing alcohol and gasoline.

Dear Ann Landers: Since returning from a month's vacation I've been depressed. Does everyone get post-vacation blues or does coming back to this miserable town have something to do with it? Perhaps the real reason for this depression is I just celebrated (7) my 33rd birthday. I enjoy my work, but the social side of my existence is sterile. Please don't suggest that I join clubs. I'm not the clubby type. And if you say "get interested in politics" I'll scream. This letter is from Washington, D.C., and I work in the government which means, eating and dreaming politics.

Should I transfer to a job overseas? I loved Europe and the people. The romantic possibilities there seemed limitless. What do you say? Am I cracked? — D.C. Droop.

Dear D.C.: You're not cracked. You're bored. A vacation spot is always more glamorous than the working terrain but since you seem to have fallen in love with Europe I suggest you transfer for a year and see if the shine wears off.

From the tone of your letter you have little to lose. Your passport doesn't even have to be renewed.

Mr. and Mrs. Erison Honeymoon in Hawaii

Canon H. Jones officiated at the ceremony in St. Mary's Anglican Church recently when Loraine Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Grice, Belmont Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Earl Erison of Port Alice, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Erison.

Baskets of chrysanthemums in bright, rich autumn colors decorated the altar and marked guest pews. Tall candelabra held flickering candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a stunning gown of silk organza. The basque bodice featured a scooped neckline and bracelet length sleeves. Silk embroidery graced the bodice and hooped skirt. Side pleating was fashioned to a bustle back, cascading to a cathedral train. Her illusion net veil was caught to a seed pearl and iridescent sequin coronet. White chrysanthemums were in her bouquet.

Mrs. Shannon Rowbottom was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Erison, the groom's sister, and Miss Della Wright. They wore gowns of gold peau de sole with short, full skirts. Their slippers were in a matching shade and their headresses were golden feathers and veiling. They carried dark gold chrysanthemums.

The groom had Mr. Murray Bracewell as best man, and Mr. Gordon Bamford, Mr. Walter Acreman and Mr. Douglas LeBus as ushers.

Candelabra, chrysanthemums in yellow, gold and bronze, and a three-tier wedding cake decorated the bride's table at the reception held in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel. Capt. James Barr proposed the toast to the bride.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in Honolulu and Kona Coast, Hawaii, before returning to make their home at Port Alice.

The bride's going-away costume was a Ming green flin and flin suit with milk collar. She wore a black maribou hat and black accessories, with a cream chrysanthemum corsage.

A BIRKS DIAMOND

A diamond, cut with the proportions indicated at the left, will return to the eye of an observer the majority of rays falling upon its upper facets, as indicated at the right. These proportions are designed to produce the greatest possible amount of brilliancy.

A diamond cut either too deep or too shallow below the girdle shows an unnecessary amount of light to escape through its pavilion facets. Either shows lack of maximum "fire" and brilliancy, and therefore it is worth less, per carat.

Diamonds cut with too little weight above the girdle, will reflect a host of brilliant rays, but these rays will be lost, per carat. Light rays disappear from a diamond's girdle in a brilliant cut diamond without per carat value.

Birks diamonds are scientifically examined for colour, cutting and clarity; weight is only the last factor of importance, considered after the quality has been proven. Some think of our standards of perfection as being too exacting and critical; we prefer it that way.

Island Weavers, Toojay's Show

Last evening at the Empress Hotel Smorgasbord and also in the afternoon at tea in the lounge, Victoria women viewed fashions especially designed for them and for Victoria's particular tastes. Island Weavers' fabrica and fashions were complemented with accessories and millinery from Toojay's in a showing which was a treat to the viewers, not only because of the fashions themselves, but because of the surroundings and background music.

CHAMBER MUSIC

Malcolm Moore's chamber music trio played as the models came down the curved oak staircase to the raised dais. The models then strolled among the guests giving particulars of their costumes and enabling each to be viewed fully and well.

Of particular note were creations by Elizabeth Altkem, who this summer spent some months in New York studying world-wide fashions and trends.

STUNNING MODELS

Anne Harris showed a stunning ensemble in "eggplant" or mulberry shade. The suit featured the new eased skirt, and slightly fitted jacket with scarf neckline. A perfect match was her globe hat of mulberry velvet.

An outfit called "Fire-fly" was modelled by Jo Altkem. Vivid red was the boucle coat with black fox collar and black buttons marching in double row down the front. Her hat was a high, red beaver, very plain, to beautifully complement the striking coat, made of Island Weavers fabric.

A very deep, lovely teal green caught the eye of guests when Virginia Looming appeared. Her two-piece knitted suit featured a plain neckline, and new, side closing accented with bows. She wore beige accessories and a Comtesse blazer hat from France, decorated with a tiny fringe.

Honor Pair At Party

To honor Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Merrett of 1330 Coventry Avenue, on their 25th wedding anniversary, a family dinner was held recently at the Net Loft, followed by a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nicholls, 6953 Haro Road.

The honor guests were presented with a tiered heart containing silver dollars. Mr. E. E. Stewart proposed the toast which preceded the cutting of the anniversary cake. A mock wedding was one of the highlights of the evening. Several guests had attended their wedding in Vancouver, 25 years ago.

Guests included Mr. and D. G. Walker, Mr. L. A. Merrett, Mrs. D. E. Merrett, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Carter, and Janice, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. White, Mr. and Mrs. K. Lapham, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Nicholls, Mr. and Mrs. W. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. W. Walker, Mrs. Ethel Woods, Miss Doris McCulloch, Miss Lynne Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Charlton, Mr. F. Kummer and Miss E. Kennedy all of Victoria.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Eakin, Mrs. R. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kummer, Mr. and Mrs. H. Treivik, Mrs. E. Begg, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hansen, all from Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McCulloch from Cedar, and Mrs. D. Sachs from London, England.

Interesting contrast was seen in the fabric of the space-blue costume modelled by Mary Kersey. The longer jacket with black braid was blue and black tweed, while the dress under it was a clear blue with impressed black pleats and an interesting over-bodice accented with buttons. Her hat was a high pill box in black mouse. The tweed was loomed in Victoria.

A stunning hostess gown, just right for the approaching festive parties, was modelled by Anne Harris. Hand woven in Dublin, this two-piece ensemble featured a skirt striped in mauve, greens and blues, with a belted over-bodice of wheat color. It was designed by Donald Davies of Dublin.

GRANITE WHITE
Jo Altkem showed a simple white dress, dramatized by hand embroidery, and featuring a detachable front panel fringed with beads. Her jewelry, a bit of crystals and pearls with matching earrings, was a fabulous accent, as was her breadth of tulle hat by Georgette.

Mary Kersey's Sudan Ivory lace knit suit was an exclusive, and just the suit for cocktails. Classically styled, it could go many places for many years. With it she wore a white, tall hat with jewel pin.

BLACK ENSEMBLE
The final costume shown was modelled by Anne Harris. A stunning, black sheer wool made by Island Weavers, it was a dress topped by a fringed jacket with side closing at a shoulder bow. Her hat seemed to be made for the outfit, for it was a tall "shako" cloche with a double row of black fringe. This suit, too, was designed by Elizabeth Altkem.

"PICTURE" SMORGASBORD
The quadrangle smorgasbord table in the Empress Hotel dining room was a delight for guests who viewed the show in the evening. A specialty of the evening was whole King crab, temptingly arrayed on huge platters.

Whole decorated salmon, hot and cold decorated roast beef, curried sea food, decorated ham and Galantine duckmeat are just a few of the main course delicacies, and the hors d'oeuvres were unforgettable. They were so beautifully arranged that each platter looked like a picture, and disarranging it simply to eat something seemed almost rude.

However, guests appreciated the beauty of the food, and enjoyed the superb flavor of it at tables decorated by bouquets of fall flowers.

Fulford

Mrs. V. Grant entertained the ladies of Beaver Point recently, at a social afternoon tea, in honor of Mrs. Mike Byron, who has recently moved into the district. Mr. and Mrs. Byron are well known on the Island, and formerly of Surrey, B.C. Mr. Byron is now teaching at the high school in Ganges.

GANGES SALE
The annual fall sale and tea, under the auspices of the Guild of Sunshine, will be held, Saturday, Oct. 28, in Mahon Hall.

Two parts of a three-part costume are modelled by Jo Altkem. The gorgeous amethyst tweed, loomed by Island Weavers, was fashioned by their designer, Elizabeth Altkem, into a jacket and skirt, plus a dress, with which the jacket could also be worn. Hats in the show were stunning, and a special group were ordered especially for this show, and were seen yesterday for the first time in western Canada.—(Ryan Bros. photo.)

A Tiny Coffin— Infected Minds?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman who intimidated her elderly neighbor with a coffin-like box was found guilty yesterday of creating a disturbance.

Magistrate N. J. Hartman placed Mrs. Gertrude Lester on probation for a year and fined her husband Frederick $100 for the same offence.

The woman had shown her neighbor, Mrs. Allen Harding, a small box with two silver handles, a hinged lid with flowers and a naked doll inside.

Evidence was that Mrs. Lester told Mrs. Harding: "Take a good look, bush bag, you'll be in it next."

"This is an odd case," said the magistrate. "I'm wondering whether I'm not dealing with infected minds."

Credit Buying For Banks To Handle?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Provincial Mines Minister Kiernan said yesterday that "credit buying is a backhand method of expanding the purchasing power in the hands of the consuming public."

He told the women's auxiliary of the Social Credit League of British Columbia that as such "it is a banking matter and should be handled by the banks."

"We could save the citizens millions of dollars annually by seeing to it that the banks handle the time purchase business and at the same time keep a lot of people out of difficulty."

"Such credit could be insured against loss at a nominal cost. Repossession would be virtually eliminated and since the percentage of real dead beats in our society is extremely small, this system would function far more efficiently than the existing dog-eat-dog arrangements," the minister said.

Classroom Freedom in Straitjacket

Learn to Think—As I Do

OTTAWA (UPI)—A leading educator says Canadian teachers sometimes are branded as "subversives" for encouraging independent thought among their students.

Dr. C. E. Phillips, director of graduate studies at the Ontario College of Education in Toronto, made the allegation in a study paper prepared for the 1962 Canadian conference on education to be held in Montreal next March.

The 56-page paper, including comments from five leaders in the field, was released yesterday by the Canadian Conference on Education, the organization sponsoring the Montreal meeting.

THINK AS ONE

Dr. Phillips said persons who encouraged schools to promote independent thought, in fact, wanted students taught to "think as I do."

"It is treachery for the public to ask schools to teach pupils to think and then persecute as subversive the conscientious teacher who is naive enough to try," he said.

Along the same line, Victoria College (Toronto) principal Dr. Northrop Frye said academic freedom must permit the study of ideas and works without reference to "ordinary society's notions of their moral or political dangers."

CAN'T REPRODUCE

"In practice this freedom may be limited in some ways, but it is sufficiently present to make it forever impossible that any open-circuit television program can ever reproduce the actual conditions of university teaching," Dr. Frye added.

Other comments from the paper:

• By Freeman Stewart of Toronto, executive secretary of the Canadian Education

Association: "There is not have little effect on classroom practice of teachers, who are kept busy doing what they have to do."

• By Phillips: "State-ments of educators aims katchewan vice-president Dr.

J. F. Ledy: "The slovenly use and the careless and casual command of the English language very often impair, or may even impede, effective thought."

A FINAL WORD

New Classrooms Are Urgently Needed

- 2000 Grade 7 students must be retained in Elementary Schools where accommodation is lacking.
- 1000 MORE students will enter local schools annually.
- Substandard classrooms must be replaced.

Properly constructed schools and well-designed classrooms will be a credit to our community if Referendum No. 5 is approved because:

- Department of Education sets the standards.
- Local building codes ensure good construction.

LOCAL RATEPAYERS PAY HALF THE COST

- Provincial Government has approved all projects and will share the cost equally with local taxpayers.
- Thus ratepayers will pay ½ the cost, or $1,877,500 plus interest.

3/5 of the Ratepaying Voters Must Approve the Referendum

Victoria Girl Wed In Winnipeg

In a ceremony in Winnipeg's All Saints Anglican Church recently, Deanna Betty, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Moore of Victoria, exchanged wedding rings and vows with Mr. Orest Hilary Hykawy, son of Mrs. Emilia Hykawy of Winnipeg. Rev. R. F. Shepherd officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white brocade with scooped neckline, fly point sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her four-tier veil was held by a Juliet cap. She carried a white Bible and white orchids with yellow sweet heart roses on trailing ribbons.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. A. W. Moore of Vancouver was matron of honor in turquoise blue brocade. Bridesmaids, Miss Marj Phin of New Westminster, Miss Elaine Palmer of Winnipeg and Miss Jaqui Gustafson of Port Arthur, Ont., wore pink, lemon yellow and apple green brocade respectively. All carried bouquets of carnations. Flower girl, Joyce Palmer, wore a pastel pink frock of organza and carried a basket of sweetheart roses and baby chrysanthemums.

The groom had Mr. Harry Kozyna of Moose Jaw, Sask., as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hykawy honeymooned in Chicago before returning to make their home in Winnipeg.

Winning Contract
By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY
In yesterday's deal, East missed declarer about the distribution of the trump suit, and stopped an otherwise easy game. Today, East swindled declarer out of a sure stopper in a suit in which the defence needed all the tricks.
North mentioned the diamond suit on the way to bidding the game in spades on the chance partner might become slam-minded.
South took the opening lead with the club ace and led a spade to the king. East winning with the ace.
With three more tricks needed to beat the contract, the heart suit had to be attacked at once. So East shifted to the heart queen. South placed East with the heart queen-jack and figured that, if he covered with the king, the next lead would come through dummy's ten. So declarer ducked the queen.
East continued with a low heart and South ducked again, expecting to force West to win with the ace. But West produced the jack instead and returned to his partner's ace to set the contract.
East's defence was well thought-out. The only other holding he had to worry about were king, doubleton and jack-doubleton in West's hand. In the first instance, East trusted his partner to overtake his queen and return the suit for a ruff. The second instance was less likely, for South would probably have rebid two hearts with a holding of four to the king.

Trouble Feared As Russians Get Congo Chance

By LYN REINERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — The Russians have been given another chance in the Congo.

Patrice Lumumba, the slain Congolese leader of last year's independence disaster, gave them their first chance. He invited them to help him crush all resistance to his high-handed rule.

SENT PLANES

The Russians responded enthusiastically. They sent him 10 Ilyushin planes to ferry his troops around the country. They sent 100 trucks to move the ammunition and a horde of propagandists disguised as technicians.

The Russians pumped money into the country to create confusion and doubt. But they overdid it.

TOLD TO GET OUT

Col. Joseph Mobutu, then a 29-year-old army officer, climbed on a table in a downtown hotel and announced he had given the Russian, Czech and Polish embassies 48 hours to close down and evacuate their personnel. They went out in the Ilyushins, leaving the trucks behind.

Now, the Russians, Czechs and Poles are back at government invitation. They came here from Stanleyville, where they had been supporting the rump government of Antoine Gizenga. Gizenga claimed to be Lumumba's heir. But in August he gave up his pretension and agreed to join the central government as second vice-premier.

The Russians hadn't been in Leopoldville long when Congolese officials noted that huge sums of money were being distributed. The Russians would like to see Gizenga or some other Lumumbist back in power.

The Communists have spent a great deal of money trying to create an image of Lumumba as the first Congolese martyr. Operating under his name, their potentialities for creating trouble are endless. To millions of Negro Africans, who understand the events in the Congo only dimly, Lumumba is a martyr and the greatest Congolese.

TROUBLE SEEN

Even in the moderate Western-oriented countries of Africa, Lumumba is accepted as the father of the Congo Republic and an authentic martyr to the cause of Negro progress. This belief is carefully nurtured by left-wing organizations.

With apprehension, diplomats and United Nations officials watch the Cyrille Adoula's central government's efforts to prevail and rule. While they think the moderate, Western-oriented Adoula is firmly in control, something bizarre usually happens in the Congo to change the course of events.

Riots and trouble could bring about Adoula's fall. Riots and trouble appear to be what the Communist-supported Lumumbists are seeking.

Canada Urged to Join Common Market Now

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Eric J. Kierans, president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges said Wednesday Canada should join the European Common Market now before the chance to do so is lost.

"The time to join the Common Market is now, before these six rapidly-expanding countries are in a position to sell as actively in Canada as they will be later on," he told the men's Canadian Club.

"If we continue to wait and see, the opportunity of moving into this market will be lost," he stated.

Program Delayed

Chimp to Pioneer U.S. Space Flights

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States will fire the first stage of its most powerful rocket this weekend. But its hope of orbiting a man in space this year has dimmed.

Government space authorities said that if no further technical difficulties are encountered, the eight-engine Saturn rocket may be sent aloft in a few days at Cape Canaveral, Fla., on a flight 100 miles above the ground and some 200 miles out to sea.

No attempt would be made to recover the Saturn or its dummy second stage. But there will be tremendous elation among scientists if the shot succeeds. American authorities are banking heavily on the Saturn to show the world they can outstrip the Russians in production of powerful rockets.

Representing three years of designing and production effort, the Saturn is described as capable of producing 1,300,000 pounds of thrust and able to lift about 10 tons of cargo, almost double the weight lift of the Russian rockets in two successful human orbitings earlier this year.

The government has ordered 10 Saturns at a total cost of $1.2 billion. The first stage of the rocket may lift a model of a moon capsule on an orbit 300 miles above the earth by 1964.

Meanwhile, a new delay appears likely for the planned 1961 man shot. The government had hoped to get an American astronaut circling the globe at least once this year, but authorities now consider this shot may not take place until early 1962.

Before putting a man in a once-around-the-earth orbit American officials want a chimpanzee to go through the performance. The chimp flight initially was planned for the first week in November, but changes in monitoring equipment may delay the shot until the latter part of the month.

On the basis of this delay, it appeared unlikely the rocket with its human cargo may be fired before next January or February.

Peace Award to Zulu Angers Verwoerd Paper

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Premier Hendrik F. Verwoerd's newspaper, the 1960 Nobel peace prize to banished Zulu chief Albert Lutuli as "an inexplicable pathological phenomenon."

The criticism was made in a sharp editorial in the Afrikaans-language newspaper Die Transvaler. Verwoerd is chairman of the board of directors of Transvaler and the paper is regarded as his mouthpiece.

Nevertheless, belief is growing that Lutuli will be granted a passport to travel to Oslo in December to accept his prize and the accompanying $43,744.

THE EDITORIAL SAID: "This peace prize was given to a man who never did anything to preserve peace. Lutuli was always in the lead in breaking the law. A year ago he set an example for his followers by burning his passport (which Negroes are obliged to carry) in public. His behavior was such that the government had to take steps against him. . . . This grant was not given with a feeling of peace in the heart but one of enmity."

Jewish Shelters Open to All

TORONTO (CP)—The 75 Orthodox Jewish congregations in Canada will be urged to include fallout shelters in their new buildings, Rabbi Walter Wursburger, Canadian president of the Rabbinical Council of America, said. The proposed shelters would be open to people of all creeds and affiliations.

Milk Time Stops Trial As Jurors Go to Barn

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario bowed to agricultural tradition Tuesday.

Mr. Justice G. T. Walsh, presiding at the Haldimand County assizes, called a halt to a criminal trial at 5 p.m.

It was milking time and nine of the 12 jurors are farmers.

Set for December

First 'Peace' Blast U.S. Project Gnome May Help Canada

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States will set off its first non-military nuclear explosion next December and its results may possibly help Canada decide whether to approve a similar explosion to separate vast oil reserves from tar sands in Alberta.

Project Gnome will be a small affair as nuclear explosions go, with only five kilotons equivalent to 5,000 tons of TNT detonated 1,200 feet below the earth's surface in a New Mexico salt bed.

But the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission hopes it will help studies in a large variety of possible peaceful uses of nuclear blasts, including the recovery of oil from shale and tar sands, excavation of harbors, harnessing blast heat for electrical power, mining and low-cost production of isotopes.

Approved by President Kennedy Wednesday, the commission's first "plowshare" project, costing about $5,500,000, is to be set off within 60 days on a site that had been prepared for the last three years.

All members of the United Nations, including Russia, will be allowed to observe the New Mexico shot, but the nuclear device itself will be kept secret, commission officials said.

INTEREST SHOWN

A group of oil companies, led by Americans, has for some years expressed interest in attempts to separate a huge reservoir of oil from the tar sands in Alberta's Athabasca region. One proposal, studied but not yet fully approved by Canadian and American authorities, is to use an atomic bomb to do the separation.

American authorities have considered this feasible and have given the idea encouragement, but Prime Minister Diefenbaker so far has turned down any nuclear explosion on Canadian territory.

DICKERING

An American AEC official said the oil companies are "still dickering" with the Canadian government. He did not know what progress had been made. But he said the proposal looks "promising."

Before the venture could get under way in Canada, Kennedy would have to approve export of the nuclear device to Canada and Diefenbaker would have to approve its use on Canadian territory.

The Gnome shot calls for placing the nuclear device 1,200 feet below the surface at the end of a 1,118-foot self-sealing tunnel.

"No radioactivity is expected to be vented into the atmosphere at the time of detonation," the AEC said.

The blast is expected to leave an underground spherical cavity about 110 feet in diameter in the salt bed. At the bottom would be a 6,000-ton pool of molten salt. It will be hot in that cavity—about 1,440 degrees Fahrenheit.

Quebec to Get New Industry

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Quebec Premier Jean Lesage announced the establishment of a $40,000,000 stainless steel industry at Tracy, west of Sorel, Que.

Lesage and George De Young, president of Atlas Steel Limited, told newsmen they expected the new industry to be in operation by 1963.

Murders High Despite Law

LONDON (CP)—A slim-recovered book entitled Murder, issued yesterday by the Home Office, indicates that the 1957 law that all but did away with capital punishment has had little or no effect on the murder rate in Britain.

PENALTY CONFIRMED

The Homicide Act—passed four years ago confined the death penalty to certain types of murder, including that committed in the course of theft, in resisting or escaping from arrest or by shooting or by causing explosions. Those who kill for a second time or kill a policeman or a prison officer also are liable to the death penalty.

Murder, compiled for Home Secretary R. A. Butler, shows that the increase in the number of murders in recent years has been small compared with the general increase in crime.

NOT UNPRECEDENTED

However, since it is impossible to say how many people convicted of manslaughter under the "diminished responsibility" clause of the Homicide Act would have been found guilty of murder before the act, these cases are listed as murders. The change in population also makes accurate comparisons difficult.

The 166 murders during 1960 is high, the report says, but not unprecedented and cannot be taken as an indication of any general continuing increase in the murder rate.

FAVORITE WEAPON

In more than 40 per cent of murder cases in which a woman was the victim, the suspect was the husband. A relative or lover was the suspect in about one-quarter of such cases.

But few women kill their husbands or lovers. Favorite weapon of murderers in Britain is the blunt instrument. The bullet is least popular.

Garden Notes

Grand Combination

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

Over the years, I have noticed a strong tendency on the part of the movie gardener to fall head over heels in love with the little bulbs—crocuses, snowdrops, scillas and the like. Once he has taken a crack at growing them, usually on a small scale at first, he develops a burning desire for great, bold masses of these delightful subjects in his garden.

He overlooks one rather serious disadvantage, however: The little bulbs, almost without exception, have a very short season of bloom. A bed filled with crocuses or a broad drift of chionodoxa is a glorious sight for a couple of weeks but holds no interest at all for the rest of the season.

One way to have your cake and eat it, too is to combine the planting of the little bulbs with the more prostrate types of alpine or rock garden plants. The bulbs will grow up through the alpine, then after doing their stuff and fading out of the picture, the prostrate rock garden plants take over the job of providing color, at the same time masking the rather unsightly ripening foliage of the bulbs.

From the work standpoint, too, this combination is a grand one, especially for the lazy gardener—like me—for such a bed maintains itself from year to year with practically no attention at all. The close growth of the alpine doesn't give weeds much of a chance to get started and weeding among bulbs is one of the most miserable jobs in the garden. It is necessary, of course, to do a very thorough job of preparation first, getting out every scrap of root of couch grass and perennial weeds.

Among the bulbs, snowdrops are a must, for they come along at a time when we are hungry for the sight of flowers in bloom. Chionodoxa—aply nicknamed Glory of the Snow—also are early birds, pushing up their clear blue flowers long before spring puts in an official appearance.

Crocuses make a wonderful show when massed closely, both the common kinds in mixed colors and the more expensive imperati, tomasianus and chrysanthus varieties. Among the daffodils we have such dwarf kinds as the Hoop-petticoat, the cyclamen flowered and the dainty white Angel's Tears. Scillas and grape hyacinths, the tiny hardy cyclamen, the winter aconite and the dwarf bulbous iris are all candidates for the bed of little bulbs.

Once the bulbs are in position, the carpeting alpine may be planted and there is a wide choice of good subjects for this job. The first to come to mind is suberula, especially the newer named varieties such as Riverdale Pink, the purple Dr. Mules and the deep red Barker's Double.

The yellow alyssum scutellum compactum will make mounds of rich gold long after the bulbs have finished flowering, and as a contrast, I suggest the lovely bright pink aethionema Warley Rose. The alpine phloxes also have the ground and a favorite of mine is a Canadian introduction, the deep red Temiskaming.

Lithospermum Heavenly Blue and Grace Ward are ideal ground covers for the bulbs but are a bit fussy about their soil, needing a heavy admixture of leafmould and sand in the ground, with really firm planting. Fortunately, the leafmould-and-loam soil composition also suits the little bulbs and they thrive in company with the acid-loving lithospermum family.

Martian Mixup

Time They Pegged the Ploof?

By RED SKELTON
Capey News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Most people who have heard me talk about "herns" on my television show probably think it's all a big joke.

Recently when the Martians were thinking about devaluing the hern, down to about 16 cents a dollar, it almost caused a panic on the London gold market.

Oh, the gold traders kept it pretty quiet (you know those international financiers... A rich, sneaky type), but they were worried for a while. Then the Venusians pumped some interplanetary foreign aid into the Martian economy (about $40,000,000 herns worth, counting military assistance), and the situation eased somewhat. Now the hern is fairly stable at six to a dollar, or 16 cents each. It's terrible awkward, incidentally when Martians try to convert anything less than six herns into American money. It's so messy chopping up pennies. That's why that Martian—the one who started this whole business by asking a Beverly Hills pedestrian for change for one hern—had so much trouble. The pedestrian didn't have two-thirds of a cent.

The pedestrian could have let it go at 17 cents even, but his name was Jack Benny.

On my Dec. 27 program, I'll show a hern assembly line. A few weeks back, I explained all the different forms of Martian currency, and its relationship to American money. In case you didn't see it, or weren't paying attention, or didn't understand it, or all three, here it is again: Hern 16¢ cents, Hian 33¢ cents, Goobee 66¢ cents, Gribble 83¢ cents, Ploof 100 cents.

I'd suggest you clip this out and paste it in your wallet. It'll help next time you run into a Martian, and if you don't run into any Martians, it'll plug up that worn spot over the change pocket.

As you can see, the ploof is even-Stephen with the dollar. At least, it was the last time I checked the galactic monetary exchange tables on the financial page of the London Times. No telling what those crazy Martians have done with their ploofs since then. The ploof may have gone poof, for all I know.

I want to finish this analysis with a little story about the hern.

It seems this Martian bum came up to a guy on the street and asked him if he could spare a hern for a cup of coffee. "A hern for a cup of coffee?" asked the man. "Isn't that an awful lot of money for a cup of coffee. "Not if you like ranthax in your coffee," answered the bum. Well, it gets big laughs on Mars.

Hollywood Today

Sophia in Clear

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

ROME (NANA) — Carlo Ponti's wife could have him hauled into court any time because of her marriage to Sophia Loren. In Italy, Carlo is still considered wed to his first wife. But she is easy-going and content with the current situation. Sophia, saying nothing and in the clear on this matter, is now making a movie in northern Italy but returns to Hollywood Nov. 5 for the premiere there of what she hopes will win her the Oscar: "Two Women." It will be Sophia's first visit to Hollywood in a year and the Italian actress will be returning in triumph.

The star is always "think of as Sophia's rival, Gina Lollobrigida, has presumably given up the idea of Canadian citizenship, and is snugly ensconced in her big villa on the Apennian way.

Frustrated singer Eddie Fisher has been seen and heard singing in the streets of Rome to whoever will listen. At a restaurant dinner party the other night, Tony Martin and Eddie sang for the other diners, then passed the plate (hat) around. When they stopped at one table, the diners sang back at them. They happened to be opera stars from La Scala in Milan. This is a crazy city.

Benay Venuta, at the Excelsior bar, told me she is in Rome to sing at three galas in the new night club, Angolo di Roma. All the American colony here are attending the opening. Backing Benay in the bongo section will be Van Johnson's stepson, Ned.

There is so much gossip in Rome it reaches to Africa, and an African lion told me that William Holden is yanking at the bit because he would have preferred a more experienced leading lady in his current movie, "The Lion." But, like a lot of the gossip here, it could be erroneous, and Africa is too far away to check on the report.

Before Bob Aldrich flew to America, he told me that his next movie, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane," will out-psycho "Psycho." As you know Joan Crawford is playing one sister, and the other will be either Bette Davis or Barbara Stanwyck. The two sisters have to be famous movie stars of the past because some-

How dedicated can you be? The script girl of Charlton Heston's "Easter Dinner" in Rome flew back to Hollywood for the three days left of filming Billy Wilder's "One, Two, Three," with Horst Buchholz. Then she comes back to work another week with Charlton before they all return to Hollywood to finish the movie there.

I was sorry to miss Rossano Brazzi and wife Lydia, who are movie-making—Rossano, that is—in Hollywood. When he returns to Rome, Rossano will produce his first independent production, "Dark Purpose," to be followed by "Black Soul," with, he hopes, Sylvia Simmons, Vittorio Gassman and Annette Stroyberg.

You haven't lived until you've seen Steve Roover and Gordon Scott as "Romulus and Remus," now filming here. Steve was a former Mr. America and later became a star in "Hercules." Gordon played Turan, Talk about muscles! The arms, legs and chests of both men seem to be hewn from marble.

He Still Painted at 90!

By INA D. D. URTHOFF

When studying the paintings by Carl Rungius which are now being shown, we must bear in mind that some of them were done when the artist was "crawling 90." This is quite an age to be still painting.

The Glenbow Foundation of Calgary owns close on 2,000 drawings and paintings by this artist, some of them bought after his death, two years ago. Our thanks are due to this foundation for making this exhibition available to us without charge.

Carl Rungius, of German birth, went to the United States in 1894, making his headquarters in New York. During the summer months he painted in Maine, New Brunswick and Wyoming.

Later, he went to the Yukon where he hunted elk, moose and Caribou.

Best known as a painter of big game, he was elected to membership of the National Academy and is represented in the Museum of Natural History in New York.

I have always felt that his animal drawings are his finest work. He became one of America's leading animal painters and received many commissions from the railway companies for illustrations in color for publicity purposes. His paintings were in great demand in New York, where he spent the winter months.

He finally built a home and studio in Banff, Alta., and studied the animals in their native surroundings. There the bears roam freely and herds of elk can be found around the town itself.

It was a common sight to see a moose standing in the waters of the Vermilion Lakes, rooting around for edible lily roots.

I have spent many happy months painting there with the old men for company. Little did I know how dangerous the moose can be in the fall of the year, even the elk should be kept at a safe distance then. There are two paintings of the moose in the present exhibition. I like the smaller one for its good composition and fine color.

Later Mr. Rungius turned to landscape painting and won the Carnegie prize for his "Lake McArthur." He loved the Rockies, his small painting "Lake O'Hara" is one of the highlights of this collection.

Vast Road Network

New Links With North For Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta highway arteries including a road north to Waterways, 225 miles northeast of Edmonton, and a scenic route through the foothills of the Rocky Mountains are on the drawing boards and expected to cost $500,000,000.

Highways Minister Gordon Taylor said in an interview the long-range plans could keep construction crews busy for the next 10 years.

He said three new north-south highways are planned east of the north-south Highway 2 which now runs through the centre of the province from the United States border to the Peace River country.

One of these highways is to tie the southern communities of Monarch and Vulcan to the Trans-Canada Highway and continue north to meet Highway 14 east of Edmonton.

Another is planned from Taber, 25 miles east of Lethbridge, through the Hanna and Sunnybrook district, eventually meeting highways running to Lac La Biche.

The third would run from the Cold Lake air base, near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border, 140 miles northeast of Edmonton, through Vermilion and Wainwright and cross the Trans-Canada Highway on the way to Medicine Hat.

MULTI-LANE
The Rocky Mountain foothills route is expected to be a multi-lane highway starting at Grande Prairie, 235 miles northwest of Edmonton, and passing through Hinton and Nordegg on the way to the American border.

Historic Dentistry

This is how a dentist's chair and cabinet looked 100 years ago. In an effort to restore the old-time dental office at Barkerville, Dr. L. King Grady of Vancouver, on behalf of the B.C. Dental Association, presents the equipment to Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

Perennial Battle

Unify Closing Time Innkeepers Demand

Perennial battle for relaxation of B.C.'s liquor laws is likely to come under discussion during today's meeting of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers' Society of B.C. at the Empress Hotel.

About a dozen of the province's leading hotelmen registered yesterday for the two-day meeting which starts today. About 30 delegates are expected to attend.

Delegates will seek "unified closing hours" for cocktail lounges and private clubs and "more freedom in saying a lounge is a 'cocktail lounge' instead of a two-inch-high sign reading 'licensed premises'."

Lounges now close at 11:30 p.m. while private clubs stay open till 12:30 a.m. and customers start leaving the lounges about 10:30 p.m. "In order to beat the rush and get a seat at the private clubs," he said. The official said "a compromise to midnight" probably would solve the problem.

Many other hotel problems will come under discussion during the business sessions.

Wrong Premier Asked To Speak at Lunch

TORONTO (CP)—The prediction wasn't far off but the embarrassment is just as acute for the Halton County Progressive Conservative Association.

The association has sent out tickets to an annual dinner slated for Nov. 21, reading: "Speaker, Hon. Kelso Roberts, prime minister of Ontario."

Mr. Roberts placed second behind Education Minister John Roberts.

Premier Roberts Soon in Office

TORONTO (UPI)—Retiring Premier Leslie Frost said yesterday Premier-elect John Roberts would "likely take office within the next 10 days."

He told reporters it would take at least that long for the transition to be carried out.

The new leader and a large number of cabinet ministers are suffering from the turmoil of the last few days. Frost said good-humoredly. "It takes a day or two to recover—even for these young men."

Frost said the fall session would begin Nov. 22, the 10th anniversary of Roberts' election to the legislature.

North Development Means Sacrifice

MONTREAL (CP)—Provincial governments were told Thursday that they should be prepared to demand smaller revenues and to grant larger timber reserves than usual if they wish to develop the forest industry in remote northern regions.

Peter M. Stern, a consultant to the Manitoba development authority, told the Resources for Tomorrow conference that development might otherwise not take place and the northern forests will remain "a latent resource adding nothing to the nation's wealth."

At the national conference on Resources for Tomorrow, he said the north's main drawing card is the greater abundance and cheapness of wood compared to forests in the developed regions of the country.

Ontario Lands and Forests Minister J. W. Spooner said Canada must lower production costs to compete effectively with the Soviet Union in the growing market for forest products.

Go It Alone?

Cadboro Bay Shopping For Transit

Cadboro Bay residents, dissatisfied with B.C. Electric's cutback in bus service, are looking into possibility of establishing their own bus service.

Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association decided this week to ask BCE if it will reconsider its cutback. At the same time, the group authorized its executive to study the possibility of another bus company entering the area.

"The people here deserve more transportation than they have got," said Mrs. D. E. Bolin, secretary, who added that Cadboro Bay residents have to wait a long time downtown for connections.

The ratepayers' group also passed resolutions aimed at Saanich council, one opposing approval for any type of apartment building in the single family dwelling area and the other a bid for a street light on Cadboro Bay Road between Penrhyn and Maynard as a traffic safety measure.

Mrs. Margot Bowden was elected president, J. C. Cox vice-president, Mrs. Bolin secretary, and Bruce Leyden treasurer.

Baptists Launch Building Program

A $1,000,000 program of extension and renovation will be launched immediately by members of First Baptist Church on Quadra Street.

Church members, at a dinner meeting Wednesday, voted 129-9 in favor of the project, which will be carried out in two stages.

First stage will include major renovations to the present structure, including heating and wiring systems.

Second stage calls for a two-storey addition to the rear of the present building, on recently-acquired property facing Amelia Street and the B.C. Electric building.

This addition will provide larger quarters for Sunday School and young peoples' activities, a banquet room and kitchen, a chapel, improvements to the baptistry, women's parlor, new church offices and a nursery.

Members approved launching of an immediate drive for funds for the project, and will engage an architect to prepare plans at once.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is greeted with a handshake by Japan's Premier Hayato Ikeda on his arrival in Tokyo yesterday.—(AP Photofax.)

Diefenbaker Greeted Japan In Japanese!

TOKYO (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada rode through the streets of Tokyo in a decorated horse-drawn carriage yesterday for an audience with Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

The 45-minute drive to the Imperial palace for the audience and luncheon with the emperor highlighted the first day of the Canadian leader's five-day visit to this nation of 86,400,000 people.

It followed by about four hours Diefenbaker's arrival at Tokyo International Airport aboard an RCAF Comet jet after an exhausting flight of 7,300 miles—about one-third of the way around the world—from Ottawa. Altogether, three RCAF aircraft logged 26 hours of air time bringing him here.

The prime minister delighted his airport welcomes by delivering one sentence of his short arrival address in Japanese. "I have arrived today in Japan and I bring greetings from the people of Canada," he said in halting Japanese.

For Japan, it was an almost unprecedented gesture by a foreign dignitary. But it was nothing new for the prime minister. He gave part of his arrival address in Spanish on his last state visit outside Canada—to Mexico City in April, 1960.

After the audience with the emperor, the prime minister visited the House of Representatives, Japan's lower house of parliament, while it was in session. A reception and dinner followed at the Canadian Embassy, with the Diefenbakers acting as hosts to Premier and Mrs. Ikeda.

ELECTRIC BILLS WILL DROP EARLY IN '62 SAYS BENNETT

B.C. Promised 'Significant' Cuts

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—Premier Bennett last night promised "quite significant" reductions in electricity bills throughout the province early next year.

Specific amounts of the reductions are now in the process of being drafted.

"This is another great dividend given by Social Credit to the people of this province," he told a boisterous audience of delegates here for the annual Social Credit League convention.

These rate reductions are going to be quite significant, my friends," he said during a fiery 90-minute speech in defence of the government's takeover of the B.C. Electric.

It appeared the premier was pulling out all stops to counter a move among certain elements within the party critical of the takeover.

"We've got enemies everywhere in this province—but the great majority of voters are for us and that's what counts," he declared.

Premier Bennett, who throughout his speech referred to Social Credit as "this little movement," charged that "paid mouthpieces" were trying to foment opposition to the government takeover of the B.C.E.

"Why are they doing it?" he roared. "To unsettle the mind of the people of this province. These people pose as patriots. They're not patriots at all. They seek only personal gain for themselves."

Premier Bennett said the government had offered the high market price of $38 a share for B.C.E. shares and had not bought them at the going rate of $33 or $34 a share.

He quoted a decision from the House of Lords which, he said, supported this course of action unanimously in a case in which a British company had been taken over by the Conservative government of Sir Winston Churchill in 1942.

The B.C.E. had a monopoly, because there was no competition, he said, and its profits were controlled by Public Utilities Commission order.

For nine years, said the premier, "this little Social Credit movement" tried to get Ottawa to stop making the B.C.E. pay corporation taxes.

"The company didn't pay them, the individual did," he said.

Ottawa, continued the premier, had right up to the last minute to change its stand but refused to do so.

Premier Bennett said the legislature had passed the takeover bill unanimously and that the act was passed "in the best democratic way possible."

If one member on either side of the House had voted against it there would have been an immediate election.

"Do you think one of them voted against it?" said the premier. "No, because they were afraid of the cold water of a general election. They know this government would have won a greater majority than ever before in the history of this province. They would have been wiped out."

"I just wish one person had stood up against it—I would have had an election," he declared.

The premier said both Dr.

Put Gaglardi In Back Seat Party Urges

VANCOUVER—Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi's frequent scrapes with the traffic laws brought a novel suggested solution yesterday.

The Social Credit Women's Auxiliary unanimously approved a resolution calling upon the government to provide the speedy highways minister with both a chauffeur and helicopter.

Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of B.C. Hydro, and Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the B.C.E., were "this very night" working on a revised rate schedule.

Shortly after Jan. 1, said the premier, new "low rates" would be put into effect in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and throughout the province.

"The amounts of these reductions are not mine to say," he said. "It is the duty of the directors of the two entities . . . we do not interfere. But these rate reductions are going to be quite significant, my friends."

Premier Bennett told his audience to look with favor on criticism.

"They say we're a dictatorship," he said. "Well if there are dictators there are thousands of them. We've got thousands of members. Of course our critics do not mean it. . . . Every time they do these things we get thousands of new votes."

Labor Beats 'Plot'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A powerful moderate group of the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) Thursday scored an impressive sweep of 15 executive posts in the 100/00-member organization.

It successfully repelled by an almost two-to-one majority in every instance—an organized attempt by radical and Communist supporters to infiltrate the federation executive.

The moderates slate, adopted in caucus prior to the election of officers, was approved down the line.

The slate was organized after federation officials learned that Communist and extreme leftwingers planned to infiltrate the executive.

Excuse Me: I've Lost My Notes

MONTREAL (CP)—House Speaker Dandaneau was either far ahead of the times or far behind Wednesday during the unveiling of a statue to railway pioneer Sir William Van Horne.

Said Mr. Dandaneau at the ceremony: "I bring you greetings from Sir John A. . . . He caught himself . . . 'I mean from Sir Dief' . . . He tried again . . . 'er, John Diefenbaker.'"

Mayor's Vote Could Cost City $150,000

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Mayor Percy Scurrah last night blocked construction of a $1,000,000 high-rise apartment and left Victoria open to a possible $150,000 damage claim.

He cast the deciding vote which defeated a proposed amendment to the city's high-rise zoning bylaw which would have allowed Wascott Construction Ltd. of Vancouver to build the 12-storey apartment on Douglas Street, overlooking Beacon Hill Park.

"This is a very difficult decision for me to make," he said deliberately. "I have made it before. I am going to vote against it. I am not convinced in my mind that the little fellow is not going to be hurt by the amendment."

THREE HOURS

Mayor Scurrah made his crucial decision after council spent some three hours on the problem. Two votes were cast on whether or not the amendment should pass and Mayor Scurrah voted against the amendment both times.

A two-thirds majority of council was needed to approve the bylaw. Ald. Michael Griffin, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Millard Mooney and Ald. Arthur Dowell voted in favor.

THREE AGAINST

Voting against were Mayor Scurrah, Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean and Ald. Curtis. Ald. A. W. Toome was absent.

At issue was a section of the high-rise zoning bylaw which sets minimum spaces between buildings.

Owners of property in the high-rise zone claim the section applies to all buildings in the area, including existing buildings.

City planner Roderick Clark contended the section was only intended to apply to high-rise apartments, and the proposed amendment both clarified the original intent and eased restrictions on existing, low buildings.

The council's decision in rejecting the amendment had many effects:

- Construction of the high-rise was totally blocked in its present form.
- Mr. Clark warned council he understood the company would not consider amending plans to continue with construction of the building.

- Ald. Edgelow warned that Wascott Construction could sue the city for damages to recover the $150,000 already spent after assurances by city officials that the building could be built.

- Ald. Mooney has given notice that he will ask the next meeting of city council to completely remove high-rise zoning from the area.

- Company officials have called a meeting for this morning to consider what action to take.

- Ald. Griffin warned that "the name of the city is at stake."

Russian Tanks Move Up

BERLIN (Reuters)

Thirty Soviet tanks backed up by troops rolled into the heart of East Berlin Thursday night in the wake of American defiance of East German claims over access to the Soviet zone of the city.

A Reuters reporter in East Berlin saw the tanks followed by Russian jeeps and armored troop carriers passing into the centre of the Communist sector. The troops and tank crews wore Russian uniforms.

OUT OF SIGHT

The Soviet tanks were parked just over half a mile from the Friedrichstrasse crossing point.

They were completely out of sight and only the presence in Unter Den Linden of two Russian jeeps and four military cars and a group of officers indicated that anything out of the way had taken place.

Several of the personnel carrying field kit behind them and it seemed the Soviet troops were prepared for a long stay.

Two officers in a car with U.S. army number plates crossed the sector border into East Berlin late Thursday night.

Communist East Germany demanded the U.S. immediately stop armed thrusts into East Berlin, and said that such American action endangered peace.

'That Dog Die I Gonna Die'

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Karo Gamble walked out of a jail cell yesterday to a joyful reunion with a little dog that was him his freedom.

The penniless vagrant, freed from a 90-day jail term because of his love for the mongrel puppy, picked up his pet at the city pound last night.

"Lord have mercy, I got the best friend I ever had," Gamble cried.

The 36-year-old Negro hugged and kissed the pup, named Waterloo. The dog wagged its tail and licked her master.

"I'm too happy to cry," Gamble said. "I got my dog back. Lord, I love it. That dog die, I gonna die."

Gamble was looking forward to a new start in a turbulent life. A week ago police came to his cardboard shack on a river bank, arrested him on a vagrancy charge and carted away Waterloo.

Gamble, thinking Waterloo was headed for the dog pound and destruction, fell to his knees and hugged the dog.

UN Decides Today On Stop Bomb Plea

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A Canadian-sponsored appeal to the Soviet Union to kill plans for a 50-megaton nuclear bomb test is scheduled for consideration today in the 16th United Nations General Assembly.

Assembly President Mongi Slim of Tunisia Thursday agreed to the request by Canada and seven other co-sponsoring countries for urgent consideration of the so-called megaton resolution which is virtually certain of passage.

Also scheduled for consideration today in the Assembly was a Canadian plan for a worldwide measurement of atomic radiation.

Speaking to reporters after a 2½-hour cabinet meeting over which he presided in the absence of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, the acting prime minister based his remarks on two points:

1. The Russians don't want to be isolated and have the rest of the world against them. Wednesday's United Nations political committee vote on an eight-power resolution promoted by Canada urging cancellation of the test passed 75 to 10.

2. The Russians don't want to be isolated and have the rest of the world against them. Wednesday's United Nations political committee vote on an eight-power resolution promoted by Canada urging cancellation of the test passed 75 to 10.

THORNBURY, Ont. (UPI)—It was "unlikely" that fallout from the explosion of a 50-megaton nuclear bomb would pose an immediate threat to the health of Canadians, Federal Health Minister J. Walter Menzies said last night.

This statement from the public health service, aimed at dampening down public alarm, added that: "At every level of government, resources and programs are being expanded to cope with the potentially hazardous situation the government now faces."

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States government has decided to step up its inspection of food for possible radioactive contamination but it urges the public to be calm, saying fallout from present Soviet nuclear tests does not warrant "undue concern."

Punishment Urged For Soviet Rebels

V. M. MOLOTOV

Molotov Irked Witch-Hunt Followed Car Mishap

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Vyacheslav Molotov's car slid into a rut in Siberia one day in 1934 and this resulted in the arrest and trial of innocent people on charges of trying to murder the former Soviet foreign minister, the government newspaper Izvestia said last night.

The incident was reported to the 22nd Soviet Communist Party congress by ex-president Nikolai Shvernik, a member of the party presidium.

Shvernik said no one was hurt and "nobody knew better than Molotov that there had been no attempt on his life. But he did not utter a word in defence of the innocent people."

U.K. Favors UN Move To Berlin

LONDON (AP)—Britain has swung around in favor of proposals to transfer some key United Nations agencies to Berlin as part of a Berlin settlement with Russia.

Senior British officials, reporting this yesterday, said the idea might shortly be investigated further at informal American-British contacts with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow.

The informants said the American-British-Soviet exchanges on Berlin probably will begin again after the current 22nd congress of the Russian Communist Party ends in a week or so.

AUSSIE CAPITAL
Australia's national capital city of Canberra has doubled its population since 1954, reaching 56,000.

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia's battered anti-party group was hit hard again Thursday when the Soviet secret police chief accused it of bearing "personal responsibility for the physical destruction" of top Communists.

pin of the state security committee, who made the charge before the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress, also said the time has come to ask the party control commission to consider bringing the disgraced "Stalinist" group of one-time Soviet leaders to "strictest responsibility."

NON-REDS BARRED

The meeting was closed to non-Communist journalists. The official Soviet news agency Tass and Moscow radio issued selected portions of Shelepin's address.

Tass reported that "touching on the criminal activity of the routed anti-party group, Shelepin adduced new facts showing that the members of this group carried a personal responsibility for the extermination of prominent members of the Soviet Communist party and Soviet state."

TRACES EVERYWHERE

He also attacked the "imperialist" intelligence services for allegedly intensifying subversive activity. He said "the traces of the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States can be seen everywhere."

Since the session's start last week congress speakers have been smashing away at the anti-party group, calling for expulsion of its members from the party.

THREE UNDER FIRE

In the last few days the demand has centered on ex-foreign minister V. M. Molotov, dubbed the group's ideological leader; former heavy industries boss Lazar Kaganovich, and ex-premier Georgi Malenkov. The group was "routed" by Premier Khrushchev in 1957, four years after Premier Stalin died.

Molotov is now permanent delegate to the international atomic energy agency in Vienna. Agency officials believed Molotov would be recalled to Moscow soon.

A Soviet official there said Thursday that while Molotov was absent from his agency office—for the first time since the congress attacks on him began—he was still in Vienna.

Inquiry Ordered Into Dag's Death

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly yesterday ordered a special investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in a plane crash in Africa Sept. 18.

It was decided to set up a commission of five prominent persons to undertake the inquiry and report back within three months.

The resolution asked for particular light on the following aspects of Hammarskjöld's death in Northern Rhodesia on a Congo peace mission:

1. Why was the flight undertaken at night without escort?
2. Why was the arrival of his plane at Ndola unduly delayed?
3. Whether the plane after having established contact with the tower at Ndola lost contact, and why the fact of its having crashed did not become known until several hours afterwards?
4. Whether after the damage it was reported to have suffered earlier from firing by hostile aircraft the plane was in proper condition for use.

Mob Scene in Boston Fracas

Melee of milling players and referees surround Detroit Red Wings' Vic Stasiuk and Boston Bruins' Don Head, grappling on Boston Garden ice during first-period NHL action last night. Boston players

identified are Pat Stapleton (11) and Charlie Burns (10). Gordie Howe (9) and Alex Delvecchio (10) of Red Wings are also seen. Bruins won, 4-0.—(AP Photofax.)

Habs Settle Old Score; Bruins Take First Win

Rookie goalie Don Head made it a 7-1 rout. Hawks got started badly when Doug St. Laurent put the puck in his own net in the first period. Canadiens boosted their lead to 2-0 with a power-play in the second period, then just pulled away in the third period almost as they willed.

Bernie Geoffrion had a goal and two assists and Bill Hicke and Don Marshall each had a goal and one assist.

MOLDED SHOW
At Boston, Head, who was back in the nets only because Ed Chadwick had been injured, staked a solid claim to the regular job, which was his at the start of the season, with a sensational performance.

The big fellow made 19 stops without a miss in the first period out of a total of 41 for the game, and got the Bruins hepped up with his brawl with Vic Stasiuk, veteran Detroit forward.

KNOCKED HIM FLAT
It started midway through the period when Head thought Stasiuk had encroached on his territory and knocked the big forward flat.

Stasiuk started to skate away, then turned back as the realization of what happened sank in. He found a willing foe, and after a stick battle, minutes for five goals which made it a 7-1 rout.

the two went at it with bare knuckles.

Bruins scored on 47 shots in their first eight games, opened up with Head unbeatable and found a new scoring punch as they put their three top forwards—Don McKenney, John Bucyk and Doug Mohns—together on one line.

Bucyk opened the scoring early in the second period. Doug Mohns made it 2-0 less than four minutes later and Charlie Burns counted on a power play late in the third period. Mohns completed the scoring in the third period.

Bucyk had a goal and two assists, Mohns a goal and an assist and McKenney three assists.

Armstrong Traded By Boston Bruins

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Bruins worked a trade last night with the Montreal Canadiens which sent veteran defenseman Bob Armstrong to Montreal for Hull-Ottawa right winger Wayne Connelly.

The Bruins also sent defenseman Dallas Smith to the current season to the Canadiens and included an undisclosed amount of cash as part of the transaction.

The 30-year-old Armstrong, a member of the Bruins for more than nine seasons, was assigned immediately to Montreal's Hull-Ottawa team in the Eastern Pro League as a player-coach. Smith was assigned to the same team as a player.

Connelly, 21, who is presently with Hull-Ottawa, played for Peterborough, Ont., in 1959-60 and at the end of that season joined the Montreal Royals for the Eastern Pro League playoffs. He had six goals and four assists in eight playoff games.

Last season, his first as a professional, Connelly, generally acclaimed as a brilliant young prospect, scored 28 goals and had 21 assists in 64 games with the Royals.

The Bruins said Connelly would join the team at a Saturday practice session and be ready for his National Hockey League debut Sunday night.

Inter-High Gala At Crystal Garden

They're not quite as many as had been expected but, still, no less than 223 youngsters will be taking part in the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's annual inter-high school swimming championships at the Crystal Garden on Saturday.

Thirty-five events, including four diving events, are listed for the four classifications—senior boys and girls and junior boys and girls.

Oak Bay high schools, which have been monopolizing titles for the past few years will be defending both the senior aggregate (Sir Edward Beatty) and junior aggregate (D. & D.) trophies as well as the Canadian Legion, Britannia Branch, trophies for the junior boys' freestyle relay.

Mount Newton, now Royal Oak, will defend the Pendray Cup, which goes to the junior girls' freestyle relay champions.

Oak Bay Senior High School tops the entries with 38 swimmers and Oak Bay Junior High School has 20. Other entries: Royal Oak, 18; Esquimalt, 21; Landsdowne, 18; Mount Junior High, 21; Esquimalt Fishery, 20; Belmont, 18; Norfolk House, 20; Victoria, 15; St. Ann's Academy, 9; Mt. Douglas, 2; and Mount View, 2.

Heats in the swimming events will take place at 10 a.m., the diving events at 2 p.m., and the swimming finals at 4 p.m.

Son of Ribot Best in Europe Although Not in Sue's Class

LONDON (AP)—It sounds sweeping, but few British experts would dissent from the view that Ribot was the greatest horse seen in Europe since the Second World War.

Some would go farther and say that the champion from Italy's Dornello stud could give chunks of weight and a beating to any horse in the world.

Ribot retired a few years ago after 16 straight victories, including top races in France, Italy and Britain. In 1955 and 1956, he coasted home in successive runnings of the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, the annual fall feature in Paris that is becoming recognized as the European championship for thoroughbreds.

Now, appropriately, a challenge to the old man's record is coming from Molvedo, one of his first crop of foals. Molvedo went to Paris early in October and—again appropriately—won the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, worth £50,000. He finished two lengths ahead of the outstanding French horse, Right Royal V, with multiwinning Misti.

Churchill's gallant British hope, High Hat, a few whisks away in fourth place.

IMPRESSIVE WIN
Since Right Royal V recently recorded a clean-cut victory over St. Paddy, 1960 winner of the Epsom Derby and still rated Britain's dark horse, the Paris triumph gave Molvedo a clear right to the 1961 European championship.

England Wins First Match

LAHORE, Pakistan (Reuters)—England, sparked by a score of 66 not out by captain Tex Dexter, defeated Pakistan by five wickets Thursday in the first match of a three-match cricket test series.

Final scores were Pakistan 197 for nine declared and 200; England 380 and 208 for five.

Set to make 208 in 250 minutes to win, England suffered early setbacks, but kept pace with the clock. Two wickets went for 17 runs and half the side was out for 104 with England needing 100 runs in 120 minutes.

But Dexter, playing his best innings of the tour, maintained the scoring rate and with Bob Barber playing a valuable part in an unbroken stand of 100, England won with 35 minutes to spare.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Victoria is still undecided about a centennial project but of all the suggestions made, as far as is known here none has hit upon the ever-growing need of more and better playing fields. Alex MacLeod Baird puts it well in a letter:

"To date in all the Centennial deliberations," he writes, "not one word has been spoken on anything being done as regards to improving sporting grounds to replace our dated facilities. The population of young people has trebled itself within the last 15 to 20 years and we still have the same facilities we had then. If it weren't for the men and women who give their time in the evenings and days off, sports in Victoria would be in a bad way. To these people we owe a very great debt of gratitude."

"In this day and age young people need a healthy body, which makes a healthy mind. All educational authorities advocate sports. There are not the chores to do today after school as when we were boys. If a teenager gets in trouble it always brings up the cry 'these teenagers.' What are we doing to prevent trouble? Let's bend the willow when it is young."

"That the federal government is alive to this situation is seen in the fact that it has voted a $5,000,000 grant to help amateur sport. It is worth mentioning that all parties agreed when the bill came up. I quote: Opposition leader Peterson's remarks: 'Certain, Socialists, particularly the Communists, use international sport for political purposes. It is rather a matter of some consequence that we in Canada do what we can to develop and increase the prestige we once had in international competition.'"

"It is therefore certain that these cities who are alive to the situation will benefit the most."

Mr. Baird has made a good point. What could be better as a centennial project than to do something for those who will be our adults in future years? The Victoria district is not only sadly lacking in facilities for the youngsters but it is just as lacking, it seems, in a desire to do something about it. A new city hall is needed and so is an auditorium but there are many who feel that more and better playing fields would bring us a greater return over the years.

Random Harvest

Fourteen of 18 National Hockey League writers who participated in a poll picked Chicago Black Hawks to finish on top, three picked for Montreal Canadiens and one for Toronto Maple Leafs. It seems that I'm going to have plenty of company... this choice for the award which goes to the outstanding football player in Canada would be Earl Lunsford, the powerhouse fullback with Calgary Stampede... Los Angeles Blades, who seemed to have more defencemen than forwards before the Western Hockey League season started, wouldn't have gained in the trade which brought them veteran Steve Cheevers for Jim Hay—unless Redeye has gone back and Cheevers has settled down to playing hockey... Edmonton Flyers may have in Len Lunde, Roger DeJordy and Chuck Holmes the best forward line in the WHL this season... But Art Jones, the amazing Gordie Fawcett and plugging Arnie Schmeitz are certainly popping the puck in the nets... for Portland Buckaroos. And Lunde may be going well enough to catch the eye of Detroit Red Wings... latest hockey rumor as it stands there has been an unexpected delay in getting the new plan, ready in San Francisco's Cow Palace, an item which has Jack Morgan, manager of Memorial Arena, hopeful that the Seals might yet play a few league games here... Edmontonians are still going for that wrestling "feud" between Gene Kiniski and Whipper Watson in a big way. It's had a longer run than "My Fair Lady"... between June and the start of the world series, outfielders Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris and manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees received no less than 50,000 letters... if you are a baseball fan, or even one who likes something different in his reading, don't pass up "The Long Season," written by Jim Brunman, relief pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds.

It's interesting, humorous and well-written... Bud Folke, manager-coach of the Edmonton Flyers, has put up a dressing room sign which reads "When everything else has failed try doing what the boss suggested."

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Portland, San Francisco and Edmonton in tonight's WHL games. Batting average to date: Bat 213, hits 136, percentage .638.

Says Drakes' Coach

Longest Game 'Half Over'

By JACK PATRICK (Coach of Victoria Drakes)
We didn't make out too well in the first half of the longest football game we will be playing this season. The second half goes this Saturday at Macdonald Park, and we hope there is enough time in that 60 minutes to make up for our dismal showing against the Royals at New Westminster last Saturday.

We go into this half of the B.C. intermediate Canadian football final 28 points down but with the attitude that everything is not yet lost. Most of our players know from experience that the outcome of a football game is very unpredictable, no matter whether it is amateur or professional.

We know we have to score a lot of points to get back into the running, and we have to come up with a better defence to take away their scoring punch. We have been working on some defensive changes which should stop the Royals' big guns.

We will need some breaks if we are to get back into the game early. We plan to make our own breaks and will be ready to capitalize on any opportunity we are presented with.

The mental attitude of our players will play a big part in this game, and I feel we will be "up" for it. We should have all our personnel ready to go—Ken Higga, Charlie Bishop and Bob Coult, who all sat out last Saturday's half. Our best hope is that we have everything to gain and nothing to lose. We are lucky that the final wasn't the usual sudden-death game. Now we have a second chance, and we'll be out to play our best game of the season.

Esquimalt Fans Support Hockey

Esquimalt Commercial Hockey League, which drew over 800 fans for its opening doubleheader last Friday night, is looking for an equal number of supporters for tonight's twin-bill.

"That's the kind of support we hoped we'd get," said a league spokesman. The fans obviously enjoyed the action too, according to the amount of noise they generated in the new 1,700-seat sports centre.

Second doubleheader sees the PPCLI Army team playing Victoria University in the curtain-raiser at 8 p.m. Esquimalt Chiefs play Navy in the second game.

Calgary Fines, Sells Renegade Linebacker

CALGARY (UPI)—Calgary Stampede of the Western Football Conference Thursday fined a $2,735 fine on Jackie Simpson and sold the renegade linebacker to Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Simpson jumped the club last weekend and turned up in Denver. His action was discovered when Stampede decided to use him in a game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night, but failed to reach him Sunday morning by telephone from Regina.

Stamp general manager Jim Finks immediately suspended the player.

Finks said Thursday Simpson was subsequently reinstated, waived out of the Canadian Football League by the other eight clubs, and sold to Denver.

Finks described the $2,735 fine as "stiff" but he added "we'll get it."

Simpson came to Calgary earlier this year in a deal with

Stamps Facing Deficit

CALGARY (UPI)—Calgary Stampede of the Western Football Conference faces a deficit of as much as $35,000 on this year's operation, says club general manager Jim Finks.

A rapid turnover of players and lower attendance make a loss certain, despite the fact Stampede have clinched a playoff spot and may have several post-season games.

Finks said crowds at the 20,000-seat McMahon Stadium have been down about 1,500 per game from last year. Attendance so far this year has been 96,521 and there still is one game left.

The figures throw a damper on the expressed intention of club president George McMahon to bid for the 1964 Grey Cup game to be played in Calgary.

McMahon said he bid hinges on adding several thousand seats to McMahon Stadium, and that must be accomplished with profits from club operations.

Finks said the sale to Denver had been made after discussions with commissioners of both leagues.

Victoria High Cagers Jamboree Fill-Ins

Victoria High School Totems have been brought into the Belmont High School basketball "jamboree" scheduled to begin tonight at Belmont at 7:30.

Totems replace Milne's Landing, who are unable to field a team. Other schools represented are Claremont, North Saanich, Mount Douglas, Belmont and St. Louis College.

Under the original plan, three of the teams were to oppose the other three with aggregate scores of their games to count. Just how the teams will line up against each other had not been determined last night.

Another jamboree will be held at Central Nov. 8 and the schedule begins Nov. 10.

Lifeguard Finance Plan Held Illegal by RCMP

NANAIMO—An RCMP official says a plan to pay lifeguards on Nanaimo beaches by holding a giant bingo game in Exhibition Park next spring is illegal.

Staff Sgt. Earl Sarvint said of the plan yesterday, "That's not legal, the ruling is right in the Criminal Code."

He quoted the Code, Section 163, which states that a bingo game may be used by a charitable or religious organization.

The plan to get funds for lifeguards was adopted last night by a committee which includes representatives of the city, outside areas, and service clubs.

Staff Sgt. Sarvint said, "This could not be classed as a charity. It's definitely illegal."

Campbell Urges Ottawa To Let B.C. Indians Drink

Make Drunkenness Crime To Halt Discrimination

COURTENAY—The federal government could reduce the degree of discrimination against B.C. Indians as far as liquor is concerned without the trouble of impractical plebiscites, Sacred MLA Dan Campbell said yesterday.

Mr. Campbell, an advocate making the Indian the white man's equal under liquor laws, said there should be no discrimination against the Indian and he should be subject to the same liquor laws as other Canadians.

"The national government should remove from the statutes the law which makes a crime of being drunk off a reservation. If an Indian is drunk then he should be charged with being drunk in a public place or being drunk and disorderly, as the white man is," Mr. Campbell said.

Recently the B.C. government showed interest in giving Indians the same liquor rights as the white man but Ottawa prefers to grant the right to possess liquor and drink on reservations only when a plebiscite indicates such in the wish in individual bands.

"This, Mr. Campbell feels, is impractical in that it would be difficult for liquor outlet operators to know they were serving a reserve Indian. Indians living off reserves in B.C. may drink and buy liquor and are subject only to the government liquor act.

Reserve Indians can, under the B.C. law, buy liquor, but as soon as they step onto the street with their purchase they are in possession of liquor off a reserve and are committing a crime under the Indian Act. A reserve Indian may drink at the home of an Indian friend living off the reserve and commit no crime. But he commits a crime under the Indian Act if he invites the friend to drink at a house on the reserve.

"If Ottawa won't permit B.C. to give the Indian equality with the white man in liquor, the least that could be done is to put an end to the discrimination in part by making drunkenness the crime and not the fact that the culprit is a reservation Indian," Mr. Campbell said.

22 Chinese in Line For $60,000 Home

NANAIMO — A $60,000 old people's home, to be built on the ashes of fire-lashed Chinatown in Nanaimo, will not go short of tenants.

Chuck Wong of the Cathay Housing Society, says 22 old-age pensioners have asked to move back to the site of their former home.

The home will contain 24 units, and these will be constructed so that at some future date they can be converted into four-room suites.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce feels faster and better transportation between Nanaimo and the mainland will ensure Nanaimo's growth and prosperity.

Industrial development chairman Elmer Bradshaw says the chamber will press for a 30-minute ferry service between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay, a speed-up of Canadian Pacific ferry service, a link with the Canadian air freight network, new homes for fishermen, and specialists for the new Nanaimo Regional Hospital.

The home will contain 24 units, and these will be constructed so that at some future date they can be converted into four-room suites.

NANAIMO — Unemployment in Nanaimo is at its lowest since 1956.

The chamber of commerce delegate to the winter works committee, Rudy Alexander, says only 740 persons are listed as jobless in Nanaimo.

Bruce Mettke, chairman of the chamber's educational committee, said Nanaimo might have a shortage of skilled workers this winter but still have an unemployment problem.

He said 75 per cent of Nanaimo's unemployed have not gone beyond Grade 8 in school.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Kiwanis Club has elected a new slate of officers headed by Marshall Hall, president. Slim Pritchard was elected vice-president and Norman Westman, secretary-treasurer.

Gordon Pike, Harry Cooper, James White and Dave Hurn were named directors.

NANAIMO — United Appeal in Nanaimo has collected 37 per cent of its 1961 objective. Officials of campaign say a total of over $20,000 has been collected so far.

This year's objective is just over $54,000, which is earmarked for 20 member agencies.

Accused told court that while driving his bus on the Trans-Canada Highway near Duncan on Oct. 16 he speeded up as he approached a hill in order to prevent holding up traffic behind him. He was charged at $2 miles an hour, police said.

Precinct Bylaw Passed

City council yesterday gave final approval to a special bylaw which creates a Cathedral Hill precinct in Victoria.

Action was taken despite a plea by Joseph McKenna, who asked council to defer action on the precinct until he had had time to thoroughly study provisions of the bylaw.

"The Sisters of St. Ann have an institution on Burdett Avenue—Mount St. Mary Hospital—and there is a possibility of them acquiring other land for expansion," he said.

Mr. McKenna spoke during a public hearing which preceded the council meeting. Later, aldermen voted unanimously to adopt the bylaw.

The precinct plan restricts the use of land within the precinct to certain definite uses.

Silver Threads Fights Loneliness

They Shoot a Bogey

By TED PULFORD

How large does the spectre of loneliness loom in the eyes of a mill-active senior citizen whose days and nights are a bleak, grey nothing relieved only by food and sleep?

For Victoria's Silver Threads Service, this problem of the aged and alone looms larger than anything else.

To say that they have demolished the spectre would be untrue. What they have done for their 800 members in the area is to whittle the bogey down to a manageable size so that the individuals can handle it themselves.

FOUR-LANE PATH
The solution, says Glen Hamilton, executive director of the United Appeal agency, seems to be somewhere along a four-lane path.

First, of course, are the packed social schedules which will keep an active Silver Threads member busy several days a week. There are cards and dances and trips and movies and plain, old-fashioned gossip.

Next came the counselling services which help worried elders with the immediate problems of living, such as finding homes, moving and even seeking work.

TAILOR PLANS
Coordination with other groups serving the aged is another vital service, Mr. Hamilton says. Knowing what others are doing allows Silver Threads to tailor its plans to fit.

All three of these endeavors rely heavily upon the fourth—the volunteer services.

The work of putting on teas and dinners, planning parties, transportation, trips out of the city, meetings and games falls squarely upon the shoulders of these dedicated people.

VOLUNTEERS
It is the volunteers, says Mr. Hamilton, who will make possible an entire year's operation of Silver Threads with only $12,180 from United Appeal coffers.

The conquest of loneliness, Mr. Hamilton says, cannot be attributed to anything as simple as a program. The principle must be to seek ways of filling old people's declining years with adventure, challenge, fun and a sense of belonging to the community. "When we do that," he says, "the loneliness takes care of itself."

Extension Plan

Street Sparks Quarrel

A new route is under consideration for the proposed extension of Blanshard Street to the Patricia Bay Highway.

This was disclosed at city council meeting yesterday during a quarrel over the proposed extension between Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. Millard Mooney.

The new route, outlined by Ald. Edgelow, would avoid cutting through the S. J. Willis schoolground which is at the north end of Blanshard Street, where it joins Hillside Avenue.

Temper flared briefly during discussion of the proposed winter works program which included an item of $3,000 to pay for a detailed survey for the Blanshard Street extension.

Ald. Mooney contended council should have a detailed report on the situation before voting any money and Ald. Austin Curtis supported him.

Ald. Edgelow contended the survey was needed before a report could be submitted to council.

Ald. Mooney withdrew his objection when council decided to ask for a detailed report on the situation before the money is spent.

Teachers Make Offer

Greater Victoria's school board officials last night asked for "more time" to study new wage proposals submitted recently by the teachers' bargaining committee in current contract negotiations.

Negotiations will continue at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Kenneth Leeming, finance chairman and head of the board's bargaining team, told the teachers' spokesmen "we have studied your proposal and still feel it's too high."

He was referring to a revised version which called for an increase of roughly three per cent which would add $155,000 to the school board's teacher salary costs.

The teachers earlier asked for an average increase of 3.8 per cent which would have cost the board $188,000.

"Don't go away with the feeling we have closed the door because we haven't," he added.

If agreement is not reached Tuesday each side will have to appoint a conciliator.

PAIRE THAT REFRESHED: Three young cadets, disregarding recent warnings, were trying to hitch-hike their way home the other night.

Finally, after about 10 minutes of fruitless effort, a car pulled into the curb.

The leader yelled to his friends, ran to the car, opened the rear door and started to climb in.

The three cadets finally got home—by bus.

BACKWARD STUDENTS: Officials of the Greater Victoria school board who are urging voters to approve the money bylaw to build 110 new classrooms in the area should include an extra classroom in the total, for themselves.

They sure need a little education.

Aldermen Retreat On Religion Query

City aldermen quietly backed down yesterday on their stand that they have a right to know the place of origin and religion of persons applying for employment at city hall.

At the same time they ignored a suggestion by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady that they could challenge a ruling by the provincial labor relations board on the issue.

The council's action was a victory for Ald. Michael Griffin, who spearheaded the drive to have the two questions removed from city hall application forms, as well as his supporters, Ald. W. A. Toome and Mayor Percy Scurrah.

cently when Ald. Griffin at the three were outvoted recently when Ald. Griffin attempted to have the questions removed.

A protest against the city's use of the questions was made to the labor relations board and the board ordered the city to remove the questions.

Council rescinded its previous motion and instructed city manager C. C. Wyatt to have the offending questions removed from the forms.

"Council passed a resolution that is directly contrary to the (labor relations) act. You have no alternative. You will have to rescind the motion," Mayor Scurrah said.

City jail inmates will be denied the "privilege" of crossing an alley to have before a mirror in Naval Shore Patrol headquarters, as result of yesterday's unsuccessful break for freedom by a prisoner.

Donald Raymond Gray, no fixed address, held in jail for Sanich and Oak Bay police on charges of breaking, entering and theft, had been taken across the alley yesterday at 11 a.m. for a shave by Const. Albert Harwood.

When he was finished, Gray started out the door, suddenly slammed it in Const. Harwood's face, and sprinted down the alley to Flaggard with Const. Harwood in hot pursuit. Cpl. Jack Rogers of Colwood RCMP gave chase in a car.

DASHED UP FLAGGARD
Gray dashed up Flaggard to Douglas, then south a block to Cormorant, where he slanted across the street and ran through a walk behind city hall — Const. Harwood close behind him.

Cpl. Rogers drove around city hall to Pandora. Gray was cut off and nabbed by Const. Harwood.

No shots were fired in the eye-catching chase. Const. Harwood, as jailer, was not wearing his revolver, according to regulations.

"This ends any shavings in the Shore Patrol office," Chief John Blackstock said yesterday.

"Prisoners have been allowed to shave there, under escort, as a sort of privilege and to speed things up for court appearances.

"From now on they'll use the sink inside the jail."

There is no mirror in the jail.

'Lady' Goes Into Orbit Re-Entry Not in Doubt

COURTENAY — Some 15 miles north of Courtenay lives a lady who chases cars.

Being a dog, her habit would not be the least bit strange if it weren't for an unconventional twist.

Crouching in the ditch in the familiar "ambush" position that has annoyed motorists ever since automobiles replaced horses, "Lady" awaits an approaching vehicle.

A second before it reaches her, she leaps up and starts running. . . in a 10-foot circle beside the road.

Lady was hit by a car driven by her owner, Mrs. Victor Bowers, less than six months ago and with a brand-new respect for cars, the 18-month-old dog developed her unique method for chasing cars in safety.

Based on this amazing statement is that the provincial government pays half and local taxpayers pay half.

But where does the school board think the government get its money from.

Incidentally, this doesn't mean we're against the bylaw, but one would think the school board could come up with much better reasons why ratepayers should vote for the new classrooms instead of using such phony gimmicks.

Diefenbaker Greeted Japan In Japanese

TOKYO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada rode through the streets of Tokyo in a decorated horse-drawn carriage yesterday for an audience with Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

The 45-minute drive to the Imperial Palace for the audience and luncheon with the emperor highlighted the first day of the Canadian leader's five-day visit to this nation of 110,000,000 people.

EXHAUSTING FLIGHT

It followed by about four hours Diefenbaker's arrival at Tokyo International Airport aboard an RCAF Comet jet after an exhausting flight of 7,350 miles—about one-third of the way around the world—from Ottawa. Altogether, three RCAF aircraft logged 26 hours of air time bringing him here.

DELIGHTS WELCOMERS

The prime minister delighted his airport welcomers by delivering one sentence of his short arrival address in Japanese. "I have arrived today in Japan and I bring greetings from the people of Canada," he said in halting Japanese.

DID IT BEFORE

For Japan, it was an almost unprecedented gesture by a foreign dignitary. But it was nothing new for the prime minister. He gave part of his arrival address in Spanish on his last state visit outside Canada—to Mexico City in April, 1960.

DINNER GIVEN

After the audience with the emperor, the prime minister visited the House of Representatives. Japan's lower house of parliament, while it was in session. A reception and dinner followed at the Canadian Embassy, with the Diefenbakers acting as hosts to Premier and Mrs. Ikeda.

Excuse Me: I've Lost My Notes

MONTREAL (CP) — Resources Minister Dandaneau was either far ahead of the times or far behind Wednesday during the unveiling of a statue to railway pioneer Sir William Van Horne.

Mayor's Vote Could Cost City $150,000

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Mayor Percy Scurrah last night blocked construction of a $1,000,000 high-rise apartment and left Victoria open to a possible $150,000 damage claim.

He cast the deciding vote which defeated a proposed amendment to the city's high-rise zoning bylaw which would have allowed Wescott Construction Ltd. of Vancouver to build the 12-storey apartment on Douglas Street, overlooking Beacon Hill "ark."

"This is a very difficult decision for me to make," he said deliberately. "I have made it before. I am going to vote against it. I am not convinced in my mind that the little fellow is not going to be hurt by the amendment."

THREE HOURS

Mayor Scurrah made his crucial decision after council spent some three hours on the problem. Two votes were called on whether or not the amendment should pass and Mayor Scurrah voted against the amendment both times.

A two-thirds majority of council was needed to approve the bylaw. Ald. Michael Griffin, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Millard Mooney and Ald. Arthur Dowell voted in favor.

THREE AGAINST

Voting against were Mayor Scurrah, Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean and Ald. Curtis. Ald. A. W. Toome was absent.

At issue was a section of the high-rise zoning bylaw which sets minimum spaces between buildings.

Owners of property in the high-rise zone claim the section applies to all buildings in the area, including existing buildings.

APPLY TO HIGH-RISE

City planner Roderick Clark contended the section was only intended to apply to high-rise apartments, and the proposed amendment both clarified the original intent and eased restrictions on existing, low buildings.

The council's decision in rejecting the amendment had many effects.

● Construction of the high-rise was totally blocked in its present form.

● Mr. Clark warned council he understood the company would not consider amending plans to continue with construction of the building.

● Ald. Edgelow warned that Wescott Construction could sue the city for damages to recover the $150,000 already spent after assurances by city officials that the building could be built.

● Ald. Mooney has given notice that he will ask the next meeting of city council to completely remove high-rise zoning from the area.

● Company officials have called a meeting for this morning to consider what action to take.

● Ald. Griffin warned that "the name of the city is at stake."

PREMIER BENNETT

Russian Tanks Move Up

BERLIN (Reuters)

Thirty Soviet tanks backed up by troops rolled into the heart of East Berlin Thursday night in the wake of American defiance of East German claims over access to the Soviet zone of the city.

A Reuters reporter in East Berlin saw the tanks followed by Russian jeeps and armored troop carriers passing into the centre of the Communist sector. The troops and tank crews wore Russian uniforms.

OUT OF SIGHT

The Soviet tanks were parked just over half a mile from the Friedrichstrasse crossing point.

They were completely out of sight and only the presence in Unter Den Linden of two Russian jeeps, four military cars and a group of officers indicated that anything out of the way had taken place.

Several of the personnel carriers had field kitchens behind them and it seemed the Soviet troops were prepared for a long stay.

Two officers in a car with U.S. army number plates crossed the sector border into East Berlin late Thursday night.

Communist East Germany demanded the U.S. immediately stop armed thrusts into East Berlin, and said that such American action endangered peace.

'That Dog Die I Gonna Die'

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Karo Gamble walked out of a jail cell yesterday to a joyful reunion with a little dog that won him his freedom.

The penniless vagrant, freed from a 90-day jail term because of his love for the mongrel puppy, picked up his pet at the city pound last night.

The 36-year-old Negro haggard and kinned the puppy named Waterloo. "The dog wagged her tail and licked my master."

"I'm too happy to cry," Gamble said. "I got my dog back. Lord, I love it. That dog die, I gonna die."

Gamble was looking forward to a new start in a turbulent life. A week ago police came to his cardboard shack on a river bank, arrested him on a vagrancy charge and carted away Waterloo.

Municipal Judge Noble Percy suspended Gamble's sentence and fine. He reasoned that a man who loves a dog that much shouldn't be locked up.

Pledge Made By Bennett

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett last night promised "quite significant" reductions in electricity bills throughout the province early next year.

Specific amounts of the reductions are now in the process of being drafted.

"This is another great dividend given by Social Credit to the people of this province," he told a boisterous audience of delegates here for the annual Social Credit League convention.

QUITE SIGNIFICANT

"These rate reductions are going to be quite significant, my friends," he said during a fiery 30-minute speech in defence of the government's takeover of the B.C. Electric.

It appeared the premier was pulling out all stops to counter a move among certain elements within the party critical of the takeover.

CRITICS 'FRIENDS'

Premier Bennett lashed out at the press yet at the same time told the audience that critics were the best friends Social Credit has.

"We've got enemies everywhere in this province—but the great majority of voters are for us and that's what counts," he declared.

LITTLE MOVEMENT

Premier Bennett, who throughout his speech referred to Social Credit as "this little movement," charged that "paid mouthpieces" were trying to foment opposition to the government takeover of the B.C.E. "Why are they doing it?" he roared. "To unsettle the mind of the people of this province. These people pose as patriots. They're not patriots at all. They seek only personal gain for themselves."

ONLY WAY TO PRICE

Premier Bennett said the government had offered the high market price of $38 a share for B.C.E. shares and had not bought them at the going rate of $33 or $34 a share.

"That's the only way to price a company," he said.

He quoted a decision from the House of Lords which, he said, supported this course of action unanimously in a case in which a British company had been taken over by the Conservative government of Sir Winston Churchill in 1912.

NO COMPETITION

The B.C.E. had a monopoly, because there was no competition, he said, and its profits were controlled by Public Utilities Commission order.

For nine years, said the premier, "this little Social Credit movement" tried to get Ottawa to stop making the B.C.E. pay corporation taxes.

INDIVIDUAL PAID

"The company didn't pay them, the individual did," he said.

DEMOCRATIC WAY

Premier Bennett said the legislature had passed the takeover bill unanimously and that the act was passed "in the best democratic way possible."

If one member on either side of the House had voted against it there would have been an immediate election.

"Do you think one of them voted against it?" said the premier. "No, because they were afraid of the cold water of a general election. They know this government would have won a greater majority than ever before in the history of this province. They would have been wiped out."

WISH ONE HAD STOOD

"I just wish one person had stood up against it—I would have had an election," he declared.

The premier said both Dr.

Put Gagliardi In Back Seat Party Urges

VANCOUVER—Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi's frequent scrapes with the traffic laws brought a novel suggested solution yesterday.

The Social Credit Women's Auxiliary unanimously approved a resolution calling upon the government to provide the speedy highways minister with both a chauffeur and helicopter.

Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of B.C. Hyhys, and Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the B.C.E., were "this very night" working on a revised rate schedule.

LOW RATES

Shortly after Jan. 1, said the premier, new "low rates" would be put into effect in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and throughout the province.

"The amounts of these reductions are not mine to say," he said. "It is the duty of the directors of the two entities . . . we do not interfere. But these rate reductions are going to be quite significant, my friends."

Premier Bennett told his audience to look with favor on criticism.

"They say we're a dictatorship," he said. "Well if there are dictators there are thousands of them. We've got thousands of members. Of course our critics do not mean it . . . Every time they do these things we get thousands of new votes."

Labor Beats 'Plot'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A powerful moderate group of the British Columbia Federation of Labor (B.C.F.L.) Thursday scored an impressive sweep of 15 executive posts in the 100,000-member organization.

It successfully repelled by an almost two-to-one majority in every instance—an organized attempt by radical and Communist supporters to infiltrate the federation executive.

The moderate slate, adopted in caucus prior to the election of officers, was approved down the line.

Elected to the executive council was Al Staley, Victoria, of the Carpenters' Union.
